Geyer, 2002 Douglas Geyer s illuminating analysis of Mark 4 35 6 56 explains why the Gospel ends as it does in the earliest manuscripts abruptly at 16 8 with the words for they were afraid This ending with women fleeing the empty tomb in trembling and astonishment has long been considered problematic and in the several attempts to rewrite it Mark 16 has become a source of unending mischief Geyer s work draws on a vast literature of fear anomaly terror and dread in the ancient world to demonstrate that this ending is a consistent overriding theme of Mark s Gospel In Mark we see and hear the story of Jesus through the eyes and ears of the Roman world Geyer brings to bear the literature of that world in a way that helps his readers to understand what Mark is doing and how the story that Mark tells continues to touch his readers and hearers ancient and modern and postmodern Geyer guides the reader through a vast and uncharted primary literature demonstrating its relevance for New Testament study In so doing he clearly proposes a fresh and original understanding of Mark that cuts across many of the critical controversies and renews its purpose and usefulness as good news Gospel for the terrors and uncertainties of our own time Michigan Bibliography: Books, pamphlets, etc.-v. 2. framework of ancient economics and transaction costs Scholars have long viewed such associations primarily as social or religious groups that provided mutual support proper burial and sociability and spaces where nonelite individuals could seek status supposedly denied them in their contemporary society However the analysis presented here concentrates on how craftsmen merchants and associations interacted with each other and with elite and nonelite constituencies managed economic political social and legal activities represented their concerns to the authorities and acquired and used social capital a new and important view of these economic engines Philip F Venticinque offers a study of associations from a social economic and legal point of view and in the process examines how they helped their members overcome high transaction costs the costs of doing business through the development of social capital He explores associations from the bottom up in order to see how their members create status and reputation outside of an elite framework He thus explores how occupations regarded as thieves in elite ideology create their own systems of honor Honor Among Thieves will be of interest to scholars of the ancient economy of social groups and Roman Egypt in all periods      Annual Report of the Michigan Academy of Science Michigan Academy of Science.
