Morality Among Nations An Evolutionary View

Michael Hoelscher

Morality Among Nations An Evolutionary View:

Morality among Nations Mary Maxwell, 1990-07-05 Morality among Nations a rejoinder to Hans Morgenthau's Politics among Nations offers a pathbreaking synthesis of sociobiology and international relations theory. It shows that two different moralities evolved in human pre history one the standard morality from which abstract ethical principles arise concerning such things as obligation and justice and the other group morality or the proclamation of the group's right to survive and its superiority over other groups. Part One surveys the philosophical literature on the question of international morality introducing arguments offered by both classical theorists such as Machiavelli, Hobbes and Grotius as well as twentieth century writers such as Reinhold Niebuhr, Hedley Bull, Richard Falk and Charles Beitz. Part Two presents the relevant sociobiological theories focusing on Robert Trivers' work on the evolution of moral emotions and Richard Alexander's and Pierre van den Berghe's work on the evolution of group behavior and ethnocentrism. Part Three analyzes the traditional philosophical work on international morality in light of new sociobiological ideas.

Evolution and Human Values

, 2022-03-07 Initiated by Robert Wesson Evolution and Human Values is a collection of newly written essays designed to bring interdisciplinary insight to that area of thought where human evolution intersects with human values. The disciplines brought to bear on the subject are diverse philosophy, psychiatry, behavioral science, biology, anthropology, psychology, biochemistry and sociology. Yet as organized by co editor Patricia A. Williams the volume falls coherently into three related sections. Entitled Evolutionary Ethics the first section brings contemporary research to an area first explored by Herbert Spencer. Evolutionary ethics looks to the theory of evolution by natural selection to find values for human living. The second section Evolved Ethics discusses the evolution of language and religion and their impact on moral thought and feeling. Evolved ethics was partly Charles Darwin's subject in The Descent of Man. The last section bears the title Scientific Ethics. A nascent field, scientific ethics asks about the evolution of human nature and the implications of that nature for ethical theory and social policy. Together the essays collected here provide important contemporary insights into what it is and what it may be to be human.

What Moves Man Annette Freyberg-Inan, 2012-02-01 The realist theory of international relations is based on a particularly gloomy set of assumptions about universal human motives. Believing people to be essentially asocial, selfish and untrustworthy, realism counsels a politics of distrust and competition in the international arena. What Moves Man subjects realism to a broad and deep critique. Freyberg Inan argues first that realist psychology is incomplete and suffers from a pessimistic bias. Second she explains how this bias systematically undermines both realist scholarship and efforts to promote international cooperation and peace. Third she argues that realism's bias has a tendency to function as a self fulfilling prophecy: it nurtures and promotes the very behaviors it assumes predominate in human nature. Freyberg Inan concludes by suggesting how a broader and more complex view of human motivation would deliver more complete explanations of international behavior, reduce the risk of bias and better promote practical progress in the conduct of international affairs.
