immunotherapy including immune checkpoint inhibitors ICIs and chimeric antigen receptor T cell CAR T therapy has revolutionized the paradigm in cancer treatment. However, the clinical outcome of immunotherapy varies considerably among patients and only a minority of patients achieve long-term clinical benefits. This is largely attributed to the fact that existing cancer immunotherapies which concentrate on several classical targets CTLA-4, PD-1, PD-L1, etc. and limited types of immune cell populations. T cells are insufficient to cope with the complexity of highly heterogeneous tumor microenvironment (TME). This calls for more efforts to not only expand our toolbox for manipulating anticancer immunity but also diversify our combinational strategies. To this end, it is urgent to deepen our understanding of cancer immunotherapy by using both experimental and computational methodologies from multi-scale perspectives: 1. novel targets from either tumor cells or non-tumor cells within TME; e.g. tumor intrinsic resistance drivers, new immune checkpoints, neoantigens; 2. in-depth characterization of more immune cell populations; e.g. macrophages, Tregs, B cells and their interactions and dynamics within TME; 3. landscape of actionable targets in patient populations for combination design. These efforts will open the avenue of rational design of combinational immunotherapies, allowing researchers and clinicians to design novel targeting therapeutics or to optimally orchestrate combinatory strategies aiming to surmount resistance mechanisms and improve clinical outcomes.

Biom mineralization Mechanism of the Pearl Oyster, *Pinctada fucata Rongqing Zhang, Liping Xie, Zhenguang Yan, 2018-09-19. This book presents an overview of our current understanding of the biom mineralization mechanisms for shell formation in the pearl oyster Pinctada fucata based on molecular biology, biochemistry, cell biology, structural biology, and environmental biology. Pinctada fucata is the major pearl-producing shellfish in the South China Sea and is also an established model system for the research on the nacre biom mineralization mechanism. Extensive studies on nacre biom mineralization have provided valuable information for novel bionic material design. Discussing the isolation and gene cloning of the matrix proteins involved in the shell formation as well as the cell signaling pathways, shell microstructures, and the environmental impacts on shell biom mineralization, it is a valuable reference resource for researchers working in the field.
