Merciless Ladies:

The Merciless Ladies Winston Graham,1944 The Merciless Ladies Winston Graham,1944 La Belle Dame qui eust mercy and Le Dialogue d'amoureux et de sa dame Joan Grenier-Winther,2018-09-28 La Belle Dame qui eust mercy and Le Dialogue d'amoureux et de sa dame are two late medieval poems in which a courtly gentleman and lady debate the merits of his pleas for her affections In both cases the lady is recalcitrant dismissing her suitor's lovesickness as a trifle denying that she ever gave any sign of encouragement and wishing to protect her reputation The lady in Le Dialogue never capitulates in contrast the Belle Dame ends by agreeing to her lover's suit and imagining a future in which they will joyfully live together Both poems merit serious attention for their kinship with Alain Chartier's La Belle Dame sans mercy 1424 and other poems in the so called Belle Dame cycle Their presence in numerous fifteenth and sixteenth century manuscript and printed collections attests to their appeal in their day Equally as significant is their unusual bipartite stanzaic structure suggesting amalgamation of separate poems and or continuations of existing poems Such an anomaly complicates attribution of authorship and dating but close study of La Belle Dame qui eust mercy and Le Dialogue d'amoureux et de sa dame can only enhance our understanding of the processes of poetic composition as well as the mise en page and reception of literary works in the late Middle Ages

Woman, the Actuality A.K. Pant,2010-11-19 Marriage is not a moral sexual debauchment consented by the society instead it describes an ethical limit of morality in sexual relations beyond which the sexual relations are considered to be illicit or adultery Marriage is a great attempt to keep the society free from sexual debauchment by assigning one man for one lady and one lady for one man Marriage is not a compulsion instead it is a confession done with mutual consent to live a peaceful life devotedly with each other From the point of view of sexual relations marriage is a factor which distinguishes human from animals It is sacred tribute to ancestors It is an indication of family succession or genealogy Marriage is a ritual to provide social as well as legal acceptance to the child in the womb Marriage is an indication of the death of the parents in the form of coming generations as it assures the eternal truth that older one has to end to provide the life and opportunities to the incoming generations For men marriage is in fact performing the moral ritualistic and materialistic duties while for women this is mere the accomplishing of sanctifying rites and following the codes of conduct Marriage is not an agreement done on behalf of a legal contract instead it is a complete dedication free from compulsions Wherever forementioned feelings do not exist in the background of the objectives of marriage there marriage means mere accomplishment of sexual satisfaction and false ego and in this situation marriage is just like a contract which if done by a man with one lady or four ladies is mere sexual debauchment in the point of view of the morals and ethics
