Read the two passages below. Underline the metaphor and answer the following questions about each.

The teacher went around the room asking each student to say his or her name and their favorite game. I started to feel very nervous. Finally, it was my turn. I opened my mouth to speak, but my mouth was a sandy desert.

The kindergarten class was a zoo. In one corner kids were playing with blocks; in another, three kids were playing tag. In the back of the room, we saw four kids at a table playing with a big box of dirt and real worms!

Metaphor In Context:

Metaphor in Use Fiona MacArthur, José Luis Oncins-Martínez, Manuel Sánchez-García, Ana María Piquer-Píriz, 2012-10-17

Metaphor is a fascinating phenomenon but it is also complex and multi faceted varying in how it is manifested in different modes of expression languages cultures or time scales. How then can we reliably identify metaphors in different contexts? How does the language or culture of speakers and hearers affect the way metaphors are produced or interpreted? Are the methods employed to explore metaphors in one context applicable in others? The sixteen chapters that make up this volume offer not only detailed studies of the situated use of metaphor in language, gesture and visuals around the world providing important insights into the different factors that produce variation but also careful explication and discussion of the methodological issues that arise when researchers approach metaphor in diverse real world contexts. The book constitutes an important contribution to applied metaphor studies and will prove an invaluable resource for the novice and experienced metaphor researcher alike.

Metaphor in Context Josef Stern, 2000-11-08. Josef Stern addresses the question Given the received conception of the form and goals of semantic theory does metaphorical interpretation in whole or part fall within its scope? The many philosophers, linguists and cognitive scientists writing on metaphor over the past two decades have generally taken for granted that metaphor lies outside if not in opposition to received conceptions of semantics and grammar. Assuming that metaphor cannot be explained by or within semantics they claim that metaphor has little if anything to teach us about semantic theory. In this book Josef Stern challenges these assumptions. He is concerned primarily with the question Given the received conception of the form and goals of semantic theory does metaphorical interpretation in whole or part fall within its scope? Specifically he asks what if anything does a speaker/hearer know as part of her semantic competence when she knows the interpretation of a metaphor? According to Stern the answer to these questions lies in the systematic context dependence of metaphorical interpretation. Drawing on a deep analogy between demonstratives/indexicals and metaphors Stern develops a formal theory of metaphorical meaning that underlies a speaker's ability to interpret a metaphor. With his semantics he also addresses a variety of philosophical and linguistic issues raised by metaphor. These include the interpretive structure of complex extended metaphors, the cognitive significance of metaphors and their literal paraphrasability, the pictorial character of metaphors, the role of similarity and exemplification in metaphorical interpretation, metaphor networks, dead metaphors, the relation of metaphors to other figures and the dependence of metaphors on literal meanings. Unlike most metaphor theorists however who take these problems to be sui generis to metaphor Stern subsumes them under the same rubric as other semantic facts that hold for nonmetaphorical language.

Contexts of Metaphor Michiel Leezenberg, 2021-10-01. This study presents an approach to metaphor that systematically takes contextual factors into account. It analyses how metaphors both depend on and change the context in which they are uttered and specifically how metaphorical interpretation involves the articulation of asserted implied and presupposed material. It supplements this semantic analysis with a practice based account of metaphor at the conceptual level which stresses the role of sociocultural factors in concept formation Where Metaphors Come From Zoltán Kövecses,2015-02-12 K vecses recasts CMT as a contextual theory of metaphor expanding and refining it to account for the ways in which many verbal metaphors are tied to context Context and Connection in Metaphor L. Hadley,1982 Cognitive Sociolinguistics Revisited Gitte Kristiansen,Karlien Franco,Stefano De Pascale,Laura Rosseel,Weiwei Zhang,2021-11-22 Cognitive Sociolinguistics draws on the rich theoretical framework of Cognitive Linguistics and focuses on the social factors that underlie the variability of meaning and conceptualization In the last decade the field has expanded in various ways The current volume takes stock of current and emerging advances in the field in short academic contributions The studies collected in this book have a usage based approach to language variation and change drawing on the theoretical framework of Cognitive Linguistics and are sensitive to social variation be it cross linguistic or language internal Three types of contributions are collected in this book First it contains theoretical overview papers on the domains that have witnessed expansion in recent years Second it presents novel research ideas in proof of concept contributions aimed at blue sky research and out of the box linguistic analyses Third it showcases recent empirical studies within the field By combining these three types of contributions the book provides an encompassing overview of novel developments in the field of Cognitive Sociolinguistics Lexical Learning, Context Dependence, and Metaphor Peter Bosch,1984 Metaphors of ANGER across Languages: Universality and Variation Zoltan Kövecses,Réka Benczes,Veronika Szeli,2024-11-04 Anger is one of the basic emotions of human emotional experience informing and guiding many of our choices and actions. Although it has received considerable scholarly attention in a number of disciplines including linguistics a basic question has still remained unresolved why do variations in the folk model of anger exist across languages if it is indeed a basic emotion rooted in largely universal bodily experience. By drawing on a wide selection of comparable linguistic data from dozens of languages including a number of less researched languages this volume provides the most comprehensive account of what is universal and what is variable in the folk model of anger and why. It also investigates the role that metonymies might play in the emergence of anger related metaphors and in what ways context influences or shapes anger metaphors and thereby the resulting folk model of anger. No such volume exists in the cognitive linguistic literature on anger or on emotions for that matter. The book is thus an essential contribution to the study of anger and will serve as basic reading for any researcher interested in how the conceptualization of anger is constructed via the interplay of bodily experience language and the larger cultural context.

Metaphor from the Ground Up

Daniel C. Strack, 2019-02-20 Metaphor from the Ground Up introduces Conceptual Filtering Theory, a theory of mental processing that describes figurative language communication in terms of conceptual domain projection and contextual disambiguation. In an attempt to match theoretical observations from cognitive semantics and pragmatics with related knowledge about mental processes from cognitive neuroscience, CFT first examines the distributed nature of conceptualization and then uses this background information to explain metonymic binding and metaphoric mapping. Once the perceptual origins of metonymy and metaphor have been demonstrated, CFT offers a detailed account of how salient aspects of conceptualization differentially combine to achieve predictable inferencing results in linguistic communication. In addition, CFT characterizes the role of contextual effects in pruning salient inferencing options and demonstrates how situational frames can be manipulated to guide semantic outcomes. The book as a whole will assert that figurative language processing cannot be characterized in terms of a generically constituted base system that receives inputs and spits out predictable results according to logical probability in a situational vacuum. Rather, it is a dynamic, context sensitive process that continually reweights the underlying system so as to rapidly select situation relevant lines of inferencing from among a variety of salient inferencing options

Metaphor and Thought Andrew Ortony, 1993-11-26 Metaphor and Thought first published in 1979 reflects the surge of interest in and research into the nature and function of metaphor in language and thought. Language and Politics in Africa is a fine collection of both empirically and theoretically based articles from across the African continent and beyond but all focusing on the twin issues of Language and Politics in post colonial African countries The authors offer critical perspectives on contemporary theoretical empirical and policy issues related to language and how such issues manifest themselves at the inevitable interface with politics in a number of African countries Coming at a time when most African countries are still grappling with language policy and planning issues while others are increasingly having to contend with the political outcomes of linguistically and ethnically heterogeneous nation states the present volume is a must read for scholars and students who are interested on the twin issues of language and politics since it represents one of the first attempts at documenting how language and politics affect each other in a number of African countries The volume is divided into two sections dealing with the politics of language and the language of politics in African countries
