Taylor,2013-07-19 This book offers an opportunity to reconsider the films of the British New Wave in the light of forty years of heated debate By eschewing the usual tendency to view films like A Kind of Loving and The Entertainer collectively and include them in broader debates about class gender and ideology this book presents a new and innovative look at this famous cycle of British films For each film a re distribution of existing critical emphasis also allows the problematic relationship between these films and the question of realism to be reconsidered Drawing upon existing sources and returning to long standing and unchallenged assumptions about these films this book offers the opportunity for the reader to return to the British New Wave and decide for themselves where they stand in relation to the films European Cinemas, European Societies Pierre Sorlin,2004-06-19 First published in 2004 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Britain and the American Cinema Tom Ryall,2001 This book looks at aspects of the relationship between British and American cinema covering the period from the First World War until the 1960s It deals with the ways in which the two industries have sought to intervene in the affairs of the other and examines how British subject matter drawn from history literature drama biography has had a place in the American film since the earliest days The history of the British cinema its institutions and its films has been closely intertwined with the history of the American cinema since films were first made and viewed in the late 19th century In many ways it has been a one sided relationship with Hollywood exerting a powerful influence on the British film industry shaped New cinema in Britain Roger Manvell,1965 A New History of British Documentary J. War especially those found in the western and film noir genres that are often used as vehicles for exploring issues central to us society and politics He looks at national cinemas in various European countries in the period between the end of the First World War and the end of the Second which all exhibit the formal and aesthetic properties of modernism The emergence of the so called new cinemas of Europe and the wider world since 1960 are also explored Chapman is a tough thinking original writer an engaging excellent piece of work David Lancaster Film and History     The New Statesman ,1918     London

Making Waves, Revised and Expanded Geoffrey Nowell-Smith,2013-06-20 The 1960s was famously the decade of sex drugs and rock n roll It was also a decade of revolution and counter revolution of the Cuban missile crisis of the American intervention in Vietnam of economic booms and the beginning of consumerism and the rebellion against it In Hollywood the genres which had held audiences captive in the 1940s and 50s musicals Westerns melodramas were losing their appeal and their great practitioners were approaching retirement The scene was therefore set for new cinemas to emerge to attract the young the discriminating the politically conscious and the sexually emancipated Making Waves Revised and Expanded is a sharp focused and brilliant survey of the innovative filmmaking of the 1960s placing it in its political economic cultural and aesthetic context capturing the distinctiveness of a decade which was great for the cinema and for the world at large Geoffrey Nowell Smith pays particular attention to a handful of the most remarkable talents Godard Antonioni Oshima that emerged during the period and helped to make it so special Nowell Smith updates his classic text with a focus on 1960s Japan and the burgeoning New York scene     The Complete Organ Recitalist, British and American Herbert Westerby,1927
