Searching for the New Black Man Ronda C. Henry Anthony, 2013-06-01 Using the slave narratives of Henry Bibb and Frederick Douglass as well as the work of W E B Du Bois James Baldwin Walter Mosley and Barack Obama Ronda C Henry Anthony examines how women's bodies are used in African American literature to fund the production of black masculine ideality and power In tracing representations of ideal black masculinities and femininities the author shows how black men's struggles for gendered agency are inextricably entwined with their complicated relation to white men and normative masculinity The historical context in which this study couches these struggles highlights the extent to which shifting socioeconomic circumstances dictate the ideological cultural and emotional terms upon which black men conceptualize identity Yet Anthony quickly moves to texts that challenge traditional constructions of black masculinity In these texts she traces how the emergence of collaboratively gendered discourses or a blending of black female male feminist consciousnesses are reshaping black masculinities femininities and intraracial relations for a new century

Looking for Leroy Mark Anthony Neal, 2013-04-22 Mark Anthony Neal's Looking for Leroy is an engaging and provocative analysis of the complex ways in which black masculinity has been read and misread through contemporary American popular culture Neal argues that black men and boys are bound in profound ways to and by their legibility The most legible black male bodies are often rendered as criminal bodies in need of policing and containment Ironically Neal argues this sort of legibility brings welcome relief to white America providing easily identifiable images of black men in an era defined by shifts in racial sexual and gendered identities

Neal highlights the radical potential of rendering legible black male bodies those bodies that are all too real for us as illegible while simultaneously rendering illegible black male bodies those versions of black masculinity that we can't believe are real as legible In examining figures such as hip hop entrepreneur and artist Jay Z R B Svengali R Kelly the late vocalist Luther Vandross and characters from the hit HBO series The Wire among others Neal demonstrates how distinct representations of black masculinity can break the links in the public imagination that create antagonism toward black men Looking for Leroy features close readings of contemporary black masculinity and popular culture highlighting both the complexity and accessibility of black men and boys through visual and sonic cues within American culture media and public policy By rendering legible the illegible Neal maps the range of identifications and anxieties that have marked the performance and reception of post Civil Rights era African American masculinity Mark Anthony Neal is Professor of African American Studies at Duke University He is the author of several books including New Black Man and Soul Babies Black Popular Culture and the Post Soul Aesthetic and the host of the weekly webcast Left of Black

The Black Man Joseph Elias Hayne, 1894 In this work African American historian Joseph E Hayne counters and refutes white racist theories of his era that denigrated Blacks through alleged scientific evidence Although lacking the scientific credentials held by his antagonists Hayne discusses issues of race amalgamation and the idea that black persons are Hamites or descendants of Biblical Noah's son Ham
