Hatton, 2018-04-28 Reinventing Space is the largest global conference and exhibition for one of the space industry's fastest growing sectors Over its 82 year history the British Interplanetary Society has acted as a forum for new and innovative ideas and developments in astronautics low cost access and utilization of space These conference proceedings reflect the work done at the 13th Reinventing Space Conference the second biggest space event in the UK during 2015 The global economic climate is creating demand to reduce expenditure leading to new challenges and opportunities in the world's space industry The need to create more responsive systems and launchers that are capable of delivering to space quickly and cheaply reliably has never been more vital. This collection from RISpace brings together industry, agency, government, financiers, academia, and end users. It focuses on the commercialization of space and addresses a range of topics including low cost launch opportunities, the rebirth of constellations beyond LEO activities, and novel technologies. These papers encourage and promote forward thinking ideas and concepts for the future exploration and utilization of space. The proceedings address New ways of doing business in space, how do we make money on affordable and responsive space missions, Tactical space systems, how do we best serve the needs of defense missions, civilian missions, the needs of emergency responders, Interplanetary missions, can we use new technology to explore the Solar System at dramatically lower cost, What are the methods, processes, and technologies that we can use to make major reductions in the cost of space missions, New application areas for low cost space systems, which ones can take advantage of newer, much lower cost systems, How do we educate and motivate the coming generation without whom there won't be a space industry.

Integration of MTC and Satellites for IoT toward 6G Era Hirley Alves, Konstantin Mikhaylov, Marko Hoyhtya, 2024-07-18

Comprehensive and authoritative resource paving the way for the integration of machine type communications (MTC) and satellite connectivity toward 6G era. This book focuses on the integration of machine type communications (MTC) and satellite connectivity toward the 6th generation of mobile systems, i.e., the 6G. Integrating these two technologies, especially within the emerging direct-to-satellite (D2S) concept employing direct connectivity between an MTC terminal and a satellite-based gateway, will be critical in enabling the future Internet of Things (IoT) applications in remote areas with limited connectivity infrastructure available. To this end, the book delivers an in-depth analysis of the drivers, use cases, scenarios, technical aspects, cybersecurity, and mechanisms spanning from the physical layer (PHY) to the application layer, regulation, standardization, and potential business models. In addition, many examples, illustrative figures, and tables support the text. With each chapter written by renowned experts in the field, Integration of MTC and Satellites for IoT toward 6G era contains information on how to enable wireless connectivity for MTC IoT devices in remote areas, which hardware and network architectures can be employed, and their pros and cons. Fundamental and practical challenges, design dimensions, and perspective technologies for integrated MTC and satellite systems. Applications and business areas that would be the first ones to employ D2S and status of standardization and regulation activities in the field. The strong tutorial element makes the Integration of MTC and Satellites for IoT toward 6G era a convenient learning resource for students and educators in higher education institutions. Moreover, it is ideal for students obtaining their first professional degree and experts who operate in this or adjacent fields and want to revise and update their knowledge    Space Debris ,2002    Astroynamics ,2000    Journal of the British Interplanetary Society ,2000    Applied Orbit Perturbation and Maintenance Chia-Chun Chao,2005 Since the start of the space age more than 50 years ago various space technology applications including communication navigation and remote sensing have advanced significantly To meet the challenges in each application category special orbits such as geo stationary semi synchronous Molniya sun synchronous and frozen have been invented or selected Although a good number of texts on the principles and applications of astrodynamics have been published a book is needed to summarize the perturbation theories and control or station keeping algorithms for understanding the dynamics stability and maintenance of those orbits Applied Orbit Perturbations and Maintenance was written to meet that need It summarizes in appropriate technical and mathematical detail perturbation theories and station keeping algorithms for various types of mission orbits and constellations Space mission designers analysts and systems engineers will put this book to great use
