Complex System Maintenance

Handbook Khairy Ahmed Helmy Kobbacy, D. N. Prabhakar Murthy, 2008-04-15 Modern societies depend on the smooth operation of many complex systems designed and built by humans that provide a variety of outputs products and services These include transport systems trains buses ferries ships and ae planes communication systems television telephone and computer networks utilities water gas and electricity networks manufacturing plants to produce dustrial products and consumer durables processing plants to extract and process minerals and oil hospitals to provide services and banks for financial tra actions to name a few Every system built by humans is unreliable in the sense that it degrades with age and or usage A system is said to fail when it is no longer capable of delivering the designed outputs Some failures can be catastrophic in the sense that they can result in serious economic losses affect humans and do serious damage to the environment Typical examples include the crash of an aircraft in flight failure of a sewerage processing plant and collapse of a bridge The degradation can be c trolled and the likelihood of catastrophic failures reduced through maintenance actions including preventive maintenance inspection condition monitoring and design out maintenance Corrective maintenance actions are needed to restore a failed system to operational state through repair or replacement of the components that caused the failure Maintenance has moved from being an engineering activity after a system has been put into operation into an important issue that needs to be addressed during the design and manufacturing or building of the system

Innovative Urban Wet-Weather Flow Management Systems Richard Field, James P. Heaney, Robert Pitt, 2000-06-27 The 20th century s automobile inspired land use changes brought about tremendous transformations in how stormwater moves across the modern urban land scape Streets and parking areas in the average urban family s neighborhood now exceed the amount of land devoted to living space Add parking office and commercial space and it s easy to understand how modern cities have experienced a three fold increase in impervious areas Traditional wet weather collection systems removed stormwater from urban areas as quickly as possible often transferring problems downstream Innovative Urban WetWeather Flow Management Systems does two things It considers the physical chemical and biological characteristics of urban runoff then describes innovative methods for improving wet weather flow WWF management systems The result of extensive research Innovative Urban Wet Weather Flow Manage ment Systems looks most at how to handle runoff in developments of the 21st century the confl icting objectives of providing drainage while decreasing stormwater pollutant discharges the impact of urban WWF on surface and groundwater such as smaller urban stream channels scoured by high peak flows sediment transport and the toxic effects of WWF on aquatic organisms the effectiveness of WWF controls including design guidelines and source and downstream controls are an important issue Innovative Urban Wet Weather Flow Management Systems looks at how source controls like biofi ltration created through simple grading may work in newly developing areas while critical source areas like an auto service facilities may need more extensive treatment strategies Focusing WWF treatment on intensively used areas such as the 20 percent of streets that handle the bulk of the traffic and under utilized parking areas is also considered Developing a more integrated water supply system collecting treating and disposing of wastewater and handling urban WWF requires innovative methods such as a neighborhood scale system that would recycle treated wastewater and storm water for lawn watering and toilet flushing or use treated roof runoff for potable purposes Energy and Water Development
