The diagram illustrates the Fast Refresh process for a Materialized View (MView). It shows three main components: the MView, the Table, and the MView Log. The MView is represented by a grid of 16 gray cells (4 columns by 4 rows) with a dark gray header row. The Table is represented by a grid of 20 cells (5 columns by 4 rows) with a dark gray header row; the second and third rows are red, while the first and fourth are gray. The MView Log is a small grid of 4 cells (2 columns by 2 rows) with a dark gray header row; the first row is red and the second is gray. Red curved arrows show the flow of data: one arrow from the Table to the MView, another from the MView to the SQL query window, and a third from the MView Log to the MView. The text 'Fast Refresh' is positioned between the MView and the Table.
