Orality And Performance In Early French Romance:

Orality and Performance in Early French Romance Evelyn Birge Vitz, 1999 This book proposes a fundamental revision of the history of early French romance it argues that oral and performed traditions were far more important in the development of romance than scholars have recognised Starting with issues of orality and literacy it is argued that the form in which romances were composed was not the invention of clerics but was rather an oral form The second part of the book looks at performance and shows that romances such as those of Chretien invited voiced presentation moreover they were frequently recited from memory sung and acted out in dramatic fashion Romances can and should still be performed today Acts and Texts Laurie Postlewaite, Wim N. M. Hüsken, 2007 For the Middle Ages and Renaissance meaning and power were created and propagated through public performance Processions coronations speeches trials and executions are all types of public performance that were both acts and texts acts that originated in the texts that gave them their ideological grounding texts that bring to us today a trace of their actual performance Literature as well was for the pre modern public a type of performance throughout the medieval and early modern periods we see a constant tension and negotiation between the oral aural delivery of the literary work and the eventual silent read reception of its written text The current volume of essays examines the plurality of forms and meanings given to performance in the Middle Ages and Renaissance through discussion of the essential performance text relationship The authors of the essays represent a variety of scholarly disciplines and subject matter from the performed life of the Dominican preacher to coronation processions to book presentations from satirical music speeches to the rendering of widow portraits to the performance of romance and pious narrative Diverse in their objects of study the essays in this volume all examine the links between the actual events of public performance and the textual origins and subsequent representation of those performances "De sens rassis", 2005-01-01 These articles are mainly concerned with medieval French literature particularly those areas in which the honorand of the volume Rupert T Pickens has distinguished himself Old French Arthurian romance Marie de France chanson de geste later poetry including Villon and the Occitan troubadour lyric Among the contributors are some of the most significant scholars from the U S A Canada France Switzerland and the U K working in Old French studies today The volume will be of interest to specialists in Old French Occitan and medieval literature generally Some of the articles deal with relatively unknown works and all are informed by current developments in medieval literary studies Urban Panegyric and the Transformation of the Medieval City, 1100-1300 Paul Oldfield, 2018-12-27 This study offers the first extensive analysis of the function and significance of urban panegyric in the Central Middle Ages a flexible literary genre which enjoyed a marked and renewed popularity in the period 1100 to 1300 In doing so it connects the production of urban panegyric to major underlying transformations in the medieval city and explores praise of cities primarily in England Flanders France Germany Iberia and Italy including the South and Sicily The volume demonstrates how laudatory ideas on the city appeared in extremely diverse textual formats which had the potential to interact with a wide audience via multiple textual and material sources When contextualized within the developments of the twelfth and thirteenth centuries these ideas could reflect more than formulaic rhetorical outputs for an educated elite they were instead integral to the process of urbanisation In Urban Panegyric and the Transformation of the Medieval City 1100-1300 Paul Oldfield assesses the generation of ideas on the Holy City on counter narratives associated with the Evil City on the inter relationship between the City and abundance primarily through discourses on commercial productivity hinterlands and population size on landscapes and sites of power and on knowledge generation and the construction of urban histories Urban panegyric can enable us to comprehend more deeply material functional and ideological change associated with the city during a period of notable urbanization and importantly how this change might have been experienced by contemporaries This study therefore highlights the importance of urban panegyric as a product of and witness to a period of substantial urban change In examining the laudatory depiction of medieval cities in a thematic analysis it can contribute to a deeper understanding of civic identity and its important connection to urban transformation

Performing Medieval Narrative Evelyn Birge Vitz, Nancy Freeman Regalado, Marilyn Lawrence, 2005 A survey of an investigation into whether medieval narrative was designed for performance

Telling the Story in the Middle Ages Kathryn A. Duys, Elizabeth Nicole Emery, Laurie Postlewaite, 2015 Much of our modern understanding of medieval society and cultures comes through the stories people told and the way they told them Storytelling was for this period not only entertainment it was central to the law religious ritual and teaching as well as the primary mode of delivering news The essays in this volume raise and discuss a number of questions concerning the strategies contexts and narratological features of medieval storytelling They look particularly at who tells the story the audience how a story is told and performed and the manuscript and social context for such tales Laurie Postlewaite is Senior Lecturer Department of French Barnard College Kathryn Duys is Associate Professor Department of English and Foreign Languages University of St Francis Elizabeth Emery is Professor of French Montclair State University

Orality and Literacy in the Middle Ages Dennis Howard Green, 2005 The most important part of the title of this book is the word and These words form the memorable conclusion to D H Green's study Medieval Listening and Reading they encapsulate how in the Middle Ages orality and literacy are not to be considered as two separate and largely unrelated cultures or modes of textual transmission but as elements in a mutual interplay and interpenetration In this volume scholars from Britain Germany and North America follow Green's insistence on the conjunction of medieval orality and literacy and show how this approach can open up new areas for investigation as well as help to reformulate old problems The languages and literatures covered include English Latin French Occitan and German and the essays span the whole of the period from the early Middle Ages through to the fifteenth century
