Oran Langue Morte:

Oran, langue morte Assia Djébar, 2001      Translations from Assia Djébar's Oran, Langue Morte Assia Djébar, Tegan C. Raleigh, 2004      L'écriture du désastre chez Assia Djébar Mounira Chatti, 2015      Non-conformity and the Power of Writing Anne Elizabeth Gerber, 1999      La parole occultée ou le voile du silence Latifa Mohamed Sari, 2010      Memory, Empire, and Postcolonialism Alec G. Hargreaves, 2005-01-01 Long repressed following the collapse of empire memories of the French colonial experience have recently gained unprecedented visibility This interdisciplinary volume explores the multiple forms of this upsurge and the forces driving it in popular culture scholarly research and public commemorations      Aimer et mourir Eilene Hoft-March, Judith Holland Sarnecki, 2009-01-23 Aimer et Mourir offers a wide ranging selection of essays that collectively address how from the Middle Ages to the present the notions of love and death get inextricably associated with the narratives that are women's lives Some of the essays tackle male writers representations that link women and in particular women's sexuality with death resulting in the figures of the femme fatale the woman in parturition and the desiring vampire A number of essays reiterate that women's hyper sexualized bodies have been used as a social construct and a psychological screen upon which to project a fear of death The challenges to this pat reduction of woman's domain come from the mostly women writers represented here and they span from Marguerite de Navarre to Amélie Nothomb These women writers rework the old formulae giving us instead death defying memories of love love regenerative of language as of bodies love forcing the frontiers of death or love creatively redefined within the parameters of death Nor are these new narratives imagined as belonging to women alone but rather as attesting to a richer more varied and greatly sensitized human experience      Assia Djébar Jane Hiddleston, 2006-10-01 For more than fifty years Assia Djébar former Silver Chair of French at New York University and winner of the Neustadt Prize for Contribution to World Literature used the tools of poetry fiction drama and film to vividly portray the world of Muslim women in all its complexity In the process she became one of the most important figures in North African literature In Assia Djébar Jane Hiddleston traces Djébar's development as a writer against the backdrop of North Africa's tumultuous history Whereas Djébar's early writings were largely an attempt to delineate clearly the experience of being a woman an intellectual and an Algerian embedded in that often violent history she had in her more recent work evinced a growing sense that the influence of French culture on Algerian letters may make such a project impossible The first book length study of this significant writer Assia Djébar will be of tremendous interest to anyone studying post colonial literature women's studies or Francophone culture in general      Assia Djébar Centre culturel international de Cerisy-la-Salle, 2010      Figurations de la ville-palimpseste Ursula Bähler, 2012      Assia Djébar Studien zur Literatur und Geschichte des Maghreb Bd. 5 € 35,00 / Sfr. 61,80 Ernstpeter Ruhe, 2001      Discours satiriques en vers ,      Écrire l'urgence Dominique D.
