Metropolitan Myths Glenys Roberts, 1982      Myth Formation in the Fiction of Chinua Achebe and Amitav Ghosh
Nilanjan Chakraborty, 2020-09-28 This book studies culture in terms of myths and how they function to construct the identity of communities. It focuses on myth formation in the fiction of Chinua Achebe and Amitav Ghosh, two major twentieth-century authors from Nigeria and India respectively. The book analyses how these two authors use myth in their works to study the cultural mores of the societies they represent. Achebe represents the Igbo community of Nigeria and Amitav Ghosh represents various communities in India in both the pre-colonial and postcolonial phases ranging from Bihar to Sundarbans in south Bengal. The book focuses on the area of myth studies in the postcolonial area of study delving into a comparative study between the two authors and how they contribute to myth studies through their fiction.      The Qualities of Time

Wendy James, David Mills, 2020-08-19 This book explores the relevance of classical ideas in the anthropology of time to the way we understand history participate in the events around us and experience our lives. Time is not just an abstract principle we live by or a local cultural construct; it is shaped, punctuated, organized and suffered in complex ways by real people negotiating their lives and relations with others. Space may be opened up for politics, violence or revolutionary change within the framework of ceremonial markers of social time: holy days, festivals and carnivals. People create and recreate patterns in the way they imagine the past, present and future at such moments through material objects, language, symbolic action and bodily experience. The rhythms of social life, including periodic episodes of sacred or special time, interact with historical events in strange ways. They are fundamental not only to the human condition but to the making and remembering of history as well as to what we recognize as the unexpected or abnormal. The Qualities of Time brings anthropologists and archaeologists together in a new conversation about the patterns of our understanding and experience of time. The authors reflect on how we should interpret evidence about the distant past and how far the structuring of social time is a human universal. They also consider whether anthropology itself has been so oriented to the present it has still to develop ways of dealing with temporality. The interactions of time structures, ceremonials and specific historical events, including violence inspired by the millennium, are interrogated. The experience of individuals who feel the times are for them out of joint is also examined. By combining socio-cultural, philosophical and historical approaches, this thought-provoking book moves anthropological debates about time's qualities well beyond existing studies. This book explores the relevance of classical ideas in the anthropology of time to the

The Bibliotheca of Pseudo Apollodorus perhaps the best known mythographic text stands out for its comprehensive aim and state of preservation The handbook has regularly been disregarded as a repository of standard myths or as a primary witness to archaic stories a reductive view at once underestimating and romanticizing the merits of the Bibliotheca This monograph unlocks the Bibliotheca as a literary work in its own right by offering the first systematic commentary on an essential selection the Cretan and Theban myths in Bibl III 1 56 and by presenting an in depth analysis of the text In so doing this volume closes a gap in current research from which a philological commentary is entirely missing The main part of the study focuses on various aspects of composition and organization by addressing structuring principles narratorial interventions and the author s method and sources It lays to rest persistent misconceptions about the representative character of the Bibliotheca s myths the author s merits and his source use all of which have divided the scholarship to this date In addition it provides an update on the author date purpose and readership text history and book division of the Bibliotheca
