types treating them according to their importance as to anatomical characteristics and habits The author has prepared detailed charts showing the classification and approximate number of species among all the genera of reptiles found in all parts of the world The illustrations included in the book make it of high value and indeed unique among books on the same subject They are not merely pictures snapped at the most convenient moment but life studies from poses displaying distinguishing characteristics The results exceed in value the familiar pen drawings of reptiles ordinarily employed in popular works The several hundred illustrations are the result of his personal endeavors A number of the specimens photographed have been exhibited in the Reptile House of the New York Zoological Park
