Markets, the State, and the Environment Robyn Eckersley,1995 A reference book consisting mainly of revised versions of selected papers presented at a workshop on Bureaucracy Markets and the Environment held in October 1992 at Monash University Critically examines the range of tools for environmental protection available to governments Provides a set of principles and recommendations to guide environmental policy makers and various contributors assess the various instruments for environmental protection against a range of criteria Considers developments in environmental management in Europe US and Australia Includes an index The author has also written Environmentalism and Political Theory

Partnering for the Environment Eric C. Poncelet,2004-02-10 Environmental policy domains are increasingly adopting strategies of cooperation over those of conflict Decision making processes founded upon collaboration and public participation are receiving more attention and favor and in turn engendering multistakeholder environmental partnerships In his thoughtful analysis Eric C Poncelet seeks to illuminate the mechanics of these partnerships especially at the level of social interaction Drawing on ethnographic research performed with four case study partnerships in the European Union and the United States Poncelet focuses on the diverging ways that stakeholders think talk and conventionally act with regard to the environmental issues at stake Also explored are the roles of environmental partnerships as sites of personal transformation where participants and their perspectives conceptualizations and expectations can and do change Partnering for the Environment concludes by examining the broader implications of multistakeholder partnerships for the future of environmental decision making and suggests ways by which these partnerships may be more effectively used and managed

New Instruments for Environmental Policy in the EU Jonathan Golub,1998-06-04 New Instruments for Environmental Policy in the EU provides a comprehensive analysis of the debate over new forms of environmental regulation in the European Union The conclusions draw attention to critical aspects of instrument design as well as the difficulty of accommodating national policy diversity without contravening EU and international tr The International Yearbook of Environmental and Resource Economics 2000/2001 Tom Tietenberg, Henk Folmer,2000-05-25 There has been an explosion in the literature and research on environmental and resource economics in recent years This major annual publication provides a cutting edge survey of current research by the leading experts in the field The Evolution of Markets for Water Jeff Bennett,2005-01-01 How policymakers are striving to move away from government regulation and achieve a balance between a property rights and a market based approach to the allocation of water resources China's Way to Carbon Emissions Reduction Ying Shen,2015-08-18 Now that the most recent scientific estimates have shown that China has become the world's largest source of greenhouse gas emissions China's influence on the world's environment and sustainable development highlights the importance of tailoring Chinese climate change law to conform with the requirements of international conventions and agreements on climate change This thorough analysis based on an examination of climate status legal background and current regulatory systems in China examines the potential role of different policy instruments in reducing carbon emissions in order to find an appropriate choice for China and recommends approaches to key issues for relevant authorities The author conducts a comprehensive and in depth study on the three mainstream environmental policy instruments used to control carbon emissions the cap and trade system the carbon tax and command and control regulations in a Chinese context She reviews China s current policies and elucidates how the issues of climate change and global warming call for social environmental economic and legal reforms in China especially in the areas of administrative law and property rights law Among the issues and topics covered are the following key issues on designing and implementing each of the three policy instruments the choice of regulatory instruments for carbon emissions reduction in a socialist market economy based on the discussion of market failure and government failure theories legal challenges from China s current administrative legislation and the definition of carbon emissions entitlements practical effect of China s climate change policy at the national provincial and local levels effectiveness of China s implementation of its international obligations lessons learned from schemes implemented in the United States and Australia comparison of China s seven regional pilot emissions trading scheme ETS programmes with the well established EU ETS linkage between China s ETS and other ETSs from a global perspective and future direction of an emerging carbon market in China The analysis assesses the critical costs and benefits of each approach in the context of selected case studies taking legal literature in the field fully into account Given that the Chinese government is taking steps to reduce emissions by altering energy production and usage and is signalling a willingness to make similar commitments in a multilateral treaty it is very timely and important for lawmakers and scholars within and outside China to think about new and appropriate regulatory measures to respond to the crisis and plan for a sustainable future This study provides not only a useful benchmark for both China and other countries in formulating initiatives on enhancing climate protection but also details the global implications for governments and for international organizations concerned with the understanding between China and the rest of the world in the context of climate change mitigation

Environmental Regulation Through Financial Organisations:Comparative Perspectives on the Industrialised Nations Benjamin Richardson,2002-02-13 This book takes a comparative perspective of practice in the European Union North America Japan and Australasia arguing that existing legal reforms to promote sustainable development are unlikely to be successful unless environmental policy can be diffused and embedded in the financial services sector This sector plays a crucial role in creating the financial conditions that allow much economic development to proceed Financial markets are already highly regulated in pursuance of various public policy objectives and there is scope to adapt existing regulation to incorporate environmental aspects into the financial services sector In terms of specific reforms the book focuses on the role of corporate environmental reporting economic instruments and liability rules to provide a proper context for engaging financial organisations with the environment as well as reforms to the system of prudential regulation that currently governs

this sector Beyond the focus on the financial services sector the book raises complex questions regarding the relationship between the state and market institutions in environmental policy and will appeal to scholars from a wide range of disciplines interested in problems of environmental governance Granholm V. Government and Democracy in Australia takes the opposition bewteen politics understood as government and democracy as its underlying theme It examines a variety of factors that affect politics in Australia such as globalization the media and the internet as well as the basic aspects of Australian politics that must be addressed in a first year text Bibliography of Agriculture ,1998 Structural Adjustment, Global Trade, and the New Political Economy of Development Biplab

Dasgupta,1998 The changes in the global economy are so profound this book argues that the world is now confronted with nothing less in both institutional and policy terms than a new political economy of development The author provides an intellectually commanding survey of this new terrain He subjects its economic and ideological assumptions to trenchant critique and shows how the rules of the game primarily reflect the interests of the rich and powerful countries of the North He also surveys the economic performance of the various regions of the South and explores the real reasons for the success of certain Asian economies reasons which run counter to so many of the policy prescriptions laid down by the West for the rest of the South The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells,1996 Environmental Policy in the European Union Governing in Nested Institutions and the Case of Packaging Waste Thomas Gehring,1996
