12. After the flower is dry, then place it on the base using the tweezers and the paper to prevent breaking.

13. With the edges of the flower still a bit damp, take the paper and the tweezers to remove the paper from the flower.

14. Once all pieces with four petals have been added, then the flower is complete.

15. Repeat the flower in the background with more flowers. Again, avoid them from touching each other.

16. When the flower for each flower is done, then move the flower to the background.
