Mergers In Higher Education Lessons From Theory And Experience:

Mergers in Higher Education Julia Eastman, Daniel Lang, 2001-01-01 In a comparative study of two Canadian higher education mergers Julia Eastman and Daniel Lang examine why and how universities merge and why some mergers succeed while others fail

Mergers in Higher Education Leon Cremonini, Saeed Paivandi, K.M. Joshi, 2019-05-23 The merger is broadly understood as a fusion of two or more units into one The merger in higher education has received much attention by policy makers as well as individual institutions in many countries as a means to bring higher education reforms The merger of higher education institutions is a visible phenomenon in the recent past but each merger provides a distinctive instance of major strategic change Besides this each merger also shows a distinct set of circumstances actors and characteristics The aims of the mergers have been varied across the nations that include a reduction in fragmentation of institutions economies of scale enhanced efficiency enhanced quality etc Along with disapproval a great amount of literature surrounding the benefits of the merger has emerged over the period of time In spite of ample literature on mergers of higher education institutions there does not appear to be a clear set of financial efficiency or quality parameters to assess the success The majority of the discussions have been narratives In the available literature the mergers have been classified based on their participants stakeholders nature the strategy that drives them their motivation and or the resultant degree of absorption This book discusses the merger experiences and case study of different countries in terms of policies and practices Each country chapter in the above context narrates that in planning the mergers what have been the philosophical economic political legal and cultural implications How the factors such as institutional history geographical distance provincial tradition state regulations the presence of collective bargaining and pertinent financial matters shaped the process as well as the outcome of the mergers The idea of merger and its implementation including process at both government and institutional level have been discussed The outcome assessment also forms the part of the discussion

Strategic Mergers in Higher Education Ricardo Azziz, Guilbert C. Hentschke, Lloyd A. Jacobs, Bonita C. Jacobs, 2019-10-29 How proactive mergers can stabilize and enhance colleges and universities and ensure their future With the pool of high school graduates decreasing national and global competition increasing and the need to invest in new technologies and approaches growing many universities and small colleges alike are struggling not just to thrive but to survive In this challenging environment mergers and consolidations are often viewed as options of last resort Strategic Mergers in Higher Education however argues that college and university mergers are a legitimate and proactive strategic option to help ensure success maximize quality and service and yield the best return for faculty and students In this thoughtful book Ricardo Azziz and his coauthors including higher education leaders who have led successful consolidations address the many questions surrounding institutional mergers When they ask and why should a merger be considered How can leaders deal effectively with the many challenges and opposition that a merger will inevitably face What are the predictors of merger failure and success And how do we successfully address the postmerger cultural divide This thorough text demonstrates how mergers can dramatically accelerate the goals of postsecondary institutions The book is informed by an extensive review of published reports interviews with over thirty higher education leaders individual case studies and the experiences of the authors themselves Addressing numerous critical questions this practical guide is aimed at higher education leaders and their boards the campus leaders charged with executing transformative mergers and any policy makers interested in change management or the future of higher education

Cases on Servant Leadership and Equity Thomas, Ursula,2022-10-14 Due to the increasing importance of leadership the study of servant leadership and its relationship with equity is vital for community educators teacher leaders public administrators and more It is important to investigate the complex relationship between organizations and leadership structure in an effort to examine the intersection of how we can best improve our organizations and the populations that they serve Cases on Servant Leadership and Equity uncovers the nuances and challenges of servant leadership experienced by diverse servant leaders It explores how servant leaders of diverse backgrounds navigate challenges that are unique to the organizations in which they lead Through a critical lens servant leadership is unpacked through the eyes of leaders that are filtered by race class ethnicity and gender as well as geopolitical spaces Covering topics such as emotional intelligence rural teachers and employee engagement this case book is an indispensable reference for managers executives sociologists government officials politicians policymakers human resource managers faculty and administrators in K 12 and higher education pre service teachers community leaders librarians researchers and academicians

Cooper,Sydney Finkelstein,2021-09-29 Volume 20 of Advances in Mergers and Acquisitions explores a range of issues relevant to a post Covid world and the ensuing recession and is of interest to scholars in strategic management organization theory and organizational behaviour who are studying questions around mergers and acquisitions

Higher Education Management and Policy ,2008 Journal of Economic Literature ,2002 Blended Families Michael W. Wambach,2009 This qualitative case study is constructed to offer insight on the infrequently investigated influence of organizational culture before and after a merger between higher education institutions Respondents were selected from volunteers to form three strata of employees staff mid level management which included some faculty members and upper level administration Each subject was a member of the pre merger organization for at least three years to establish full enculturation The interviews were conducted four years after the merger The methodology included having each respondent draw a picture of how they perceived working at the pre merger organization and another picture depicting how they perceived working in the merged organization The results show that communication especially incongruence between administrative actions and the values espoused by leadership during a merger process is crucial to assimilation of pre merger culture and development of the merged entity s culture In addition employees lower in the organizational hierarchy demonstrated greater concern for the personal effects of retrenchment actions than did those in middle and upper administrative levels Another salient finding is that leadership should treat culture as a constantly evolving element within an organization When leadership treats culture development as simply another project separated from other aspects of organizational life it is less likely to meet with success The dissertation citations contained here are published with the permission of ProQuest llc Further reproduction is prohibited without permission Copies of dissertations may be obtained by Telephone 800 1 800 521 0600 Web page http://www.proquest.com/en_US/products/dissertations/individuals.shtml

American Book Publishing Record ,2002 Canadian Book Review Annual Joyce M. Wilson,2003 Incentive-based Budgeting Systems in Public Universities Douglas M. Priest,2002 Financial incentives play an important role in the behaviour of public institutions of higher education Incentive Based Budgeting Systems in Public Universities examines alternative uses of these financial incentives and reviews the consequences of their implementation The contributors to the book explore diverse areas including faculty behaviour in an incentive based environment effects on teaching evaluation of decentralized approaches to budgeting efficiency implications at the state level the ramifications of revenue flux on institutional behaviour Case studies from the University of Toronto the University of Michigan and Indiana University are also presented and the volume concludes with recommendations regarding possible implementation strategies The first to analyse the implementation of various permutations of incentive based budgeting in public institutions of higher education this book will be of enormous interest to policy makers trustees administrators and faculty members of these institutions It will also appeal to those involved in higher education programmes offering courses in the economics and finance of colleges and universities
