Landscape Poetics Monika Szuba, 2023-09-04 Landscape Poetics is an interdisciplinary study that seeks to place Scottish writers in relation to their landscape by investigating how the self is entwined in place By examining the writing and practice of particular modern and contemporary authors in the light of environmental thought the study explores their lived organic connection to the landscape Landscape Poetics presents an argument that the relationship between author and world is expressed through the language of vibrant and engaged experience Shepherd MacCaig Jamie Clark and Finlay are seen as reinventing the perception of the landscape by proposing that the subject is no longer involved in the act of objectification but is instead an embodied self that enters place perceiving it more fully Whale Years Gregory O'Brien, 2015-07-01 For more than three years poet and artist Gregory O'Brien followed the migratory routes of whales and seabirds across vast tracts of the South Pacific Ocean resulting in a collection of poems that stand as a homage to a series of remarkable locations and the natural histories of those places In three parts this collection stretches across the Pacific following whale roads weather balloons and sons at sea charting historical explorations and other Pacific realisms such as the Pacific trash vortex the wavering democracy of Tonga and the political history of Chile These poems are an exploration of outlying islands the ocean that lies between them and the whale species and sea birds found there From Waihi looking east and Valparaiso looking west O'Brien surveys the cultural heart and health of an ocean in memorable musical moving lines Specimen Colony Alec Finlay, 2008 Cultural Writing Art Produced in collaboration with The Bluecoat Liverpool's oldest arts center Alec Finlay's SPECIMEN COLONY draws on an exhibition and permanent open air installation of participative public sculpture that creates a series of colorful colonies formed by nest boxes functional and familiar objects created by Finlay whose form suggests the schematic figure of a bird Finlay's work transposes the colors of exotic birds found on foreign postage stamps onto these nest boxes playfully commenting on Liverpool's global links of trade and migration while contemplating the city's avian emblem This collage of postage stamps and the remarkable birds that illustrate them not only evokes communication correspondence and collecting but also makes SPECIMEN COLONY an unforgettable and lushly illustrated artist's book that stands on its own aside from the events surrounding the exhibition Alec Finlay is an artist poet and publisher Born in Scotland in 1966 he became the first BALTIC Arts Centre artist in residence
