During Deployment Marna Ashburn, 2017-10-06 Since combat operations began in October 2001 more than 2.1 million U.S. service members have been deployed to Iraq and Afghanistan and over half of them were married Marriage During Deployment a memoir about a military family during wartime deployment offers a window into the homelife and emotional world of a military family during deployment During her husband's Army deployment to Afghanistan Marna Ashburn shows the mother handling everything teaching the child to drive attending little league games and school events solo fixing broken dishwashers and cars and celebrating holidays without dad Marriage During Deployment depicts how the children and mother cope during the absence of their military member and how they stay connected to him while he is six thousand miles away from them But while families try to stay connected during deployment it can certainly be tough on them and even tougher on the relationship The truth is that geographical distance allows habits and coping mechanisms to fall away revealing some long ignored issues In the end Marriage During Deployment becomes a meditation on marriage relationships and identity prompting the reader to question whether the couple can survive the life changing year of deployment The accumulation of missed moments inevitably creates a distance which may prove irreparable Between the heartbreaking send offs and the joyful reunions there's this a year of separation distance challenges anxiety and loneliness While providing you with an honest portrayal of resilient kids and a can do military wife Marna Ashburn also reveals the hidden costs of Army service Married to the Military: The Employment and Earnings of Military Wives Compared With Those of Civilian Wives, 2002 The purpose of this report is to analyze the employment and earnings of military wives compared with those of civilian wives between 1987 and 1999 Today's military is a military of families About half of active duty members are married as they enter their fifth year of service and about three fourths are married as they enter their tenth year of service Therefore in supporting the service member manpower policy must often also support the member's family Family considerations are apparent in policies on housing health care child care dependents schools and compensation for separation from family members Many military spouses work in the labor force and contribute to their family's material well being yet at the same time they must accommodate the demands the military makes of the member in the form of training drills inspections education exercises peacetime operations and hostile deployment Also the member is periodically reassigned and permanent change of station PCS moves generally require the working wife to leave one job and find another Thus this report assesses the labor supply and wage of the military wife recognizing the wife's contribution to family earnings and realizing that the military's demands on the member also affect the wife The analysis is based on a sample of husband and wife families drawn from the 1988 2000 Current Population Survey March Supplement and containing retrospective information for the previous year The sample has two subsamples one for military families and one for civilian families We weighted each subsample for each year to reflect the male age education and race ethnicity composition of the active duty force in that year We focused on military wives because there were not enough observations to study the husbands of female military members
