Merrell Semiotic Theory Of Te:

Semiotic Subjectivity in Education and Counseling Inna R. Semetsky, 2019-10-16 Semiotic Subjectivity in Education and Counseling demonstrates the importance of addressing the concept of the unconscious in learning Exploring the innovative concept of edusemiotics it challenges the received notion of learning as solely academic and linguistic instead offering an ethico aesthetic paradigm that draws on transdisciplinary research in the context of this new direction in educational theory The chapters explore the production of subjectivity within the process of semiosis as the action and transformation of signs An unorthodox pedagogy of the unconscious blends with the therapeutic dimension and produces subjectivities that emerge in the midst of the relational dynamics of experience The book argues for holistic education that rejects the schism between matter and spirit pervading Western thinking and represents a shift in rethinking spirituality while never separating it from logic and reason Giving voice to the unconscious contributes to learning and changing our habits as an important objective in educative and counseling practices The book critically examines the legacy of Charles S Peirce Lev S Vygotsky and other forerunners of edusemiotics It will be essential reading for academics researchers and postgraduate students across the fields of educational philosophy educational psychology and counseling as well as science studies Semiosis in the Postmodern Age Floyd Merrell, 1995 Who are we to suppose we are capable of comprehending the world of which we are a part and what is the world to suppose it can be understood by us minuscule and insignificant spatiotemporal warps contained within it This provocative question opens Floyd Merrell's study of postmodernism and the thought of Charles Sanders Peirce part of the author's ongoing effort to understand our contemporary cultural and intellectual environment The specific focus in this interdisciplinary study is the modernism postmodernism dichotomy and Peirce's precocious realization that the world does not lend itself to the simplistic binarism of modernist thought In Merrell's examination of postmodern phenomena the reader is taken through various facets of the cognitive sciences philosophy of science mathematics and literary theory Merrell's consideration of Peirce's complex and inadequately understood concept of the sign is enhanced through numerous charts and figures Theories hypotheses and speculation in the physical sciences are then brought to bear on Peircean semiotics The final chapter critiques the often indiscriminating acceptance of postmodern practices in today's academic world Signs Grow Floyd Merrell, 1996-08-15 This is the third volume in Floyd Merrell's trilogy on semiotics focusing on Peirce's categories of Firstness Secondness and Thirdness In this book the author argues that there are passageways linking the social sciences with the physical sciences and signs with life processes This is not a study of the semiotics of life but rather of semiosis as a living process Merrell attempts to articulate the links between thought that is rooted in that which can be quantified and thought that resists quantification namely that of the consciousness As he writes in his preface he is intent on fusing the customary distinctions between life and non life mind and matter self and other appearance fiction and reality to reveal the everything that is is a sign In order to accomplish this goal Peirce's tertiary concept of the sign is crucial

Merrell begins by asking What are signs that they may take on life like processes and what is life that it may know the sign processes that brought it themselves into existence In order to answer this question he examines semiotic theory philosophical discourse the life sciences the mathematical sciences and literary theory He offers an original reading of Peirce s thought along with that of Prigogine and of many others Following Sebeok Merrell reminds us that any and all investigation of nature and of the nature of signs and life must ultimately be semiotic in nature
