Design Principles for Teaching Effective Writing Raquel Fidalgo Redondo, Karen Harris, Martine Braaksma, 2017-11-20 This volume presents effective instructional programs focused on two perspectives on writing: the teaching and learning of writing as a skill and the use of writing as a learning activity in various school subjects or skills acquisition. It is focused on analysing micro design features of the programs, such as learning activities, supporting materials, specific strategies, instructional techniques, but also macro design rules of intervention programs, such as instructional sequence, instructional stages based on research evidence provided for previous studies. This volume goes beyond a practical volume because it provides additional reflection and discussion about theoretical background and empirically based evidence which support the specific intervention programs described. Several chapters in this book include links to an Open Access e-book where teacher and student materials for the authors' instructional approaches can be found; see ToC. Teaching Writing in the Caribbean Sandra Robinson, Victor C. It offers a wealth of examples, strategies, activities, and tasks that are culturally sensitive to support the practice of writing educators in secondary and post-secondary institutions, teacher educators involved in teacher preparation, students studying at the university level in the Caribbean, as well as practitioners and researchers in the practice of Caribbean approaches to the teaching of writing to students within the diaspora. The text includes authentic classroom examples as well as templates and tools for educators. This is a key resource for educators teaching writing across all levels: pre-service teachers
