Mancall,2011-03-17 In the early modern age more people traveled farther than at any earlier time in human history Many returned home with stories of distant lands and at least some of the objects they collected during their journeys And those who did not travel eagerly acquired wondrous materials that arrived from faraway places Objects traveled various routes personal imperial missionary or trade and moved not only across space but also across cultures Histories of the early modern global culture of collecting have focused for the most part on European Wunderkammern or cabinets of curiosities But the passion for acquiring unfamiliar items rippled across many lands The court in Java marveled at collected and displayed myriad goods brought through its halls African princes traded captured members of other African groups so they could get the newest kinds of cloth produced in Europe Native Americans sought colored glass beads made in Europe often trading them to other indigenous groups Items changed hands and crossed cultural boundaries frequently often gaining new and valuable meanings in the process An object that might have seemed mundane in some cultures could become a target of veneration in another The fourteen essays in Collecting Across Cultures represent work by an international group of historians art historians and historians of science Each author explores a specific aspect of the cross cultural history of collecting and display from the dawn of the sixteenth century to the early decades of the nineteenth century As the essays attest an examination of early modern collecting in cross cultural contexts sheds light on the creative and complicated ways in which objects in collections served to create knowledge some factual some fictional about distant peoples in an increasingly transnational world Collections in Early Modern Era Eliška Zlatohlávková,Marika Koblusek,Ingrid Halászová,Ingrid Štíbraná,Marcus Becker,2024 Collecting Modern Philadelphia Museum of Art,Kathryn B. Hiesinger,2011 The Philadelphia Museum of Art was founded in 1876 after its home city hosted the Centennial with the primary goal of acquiring important examples of contemporary design and decorative arts. This book explores the development and significance of this extraordinary collection. Ethics of Contemporary Collecting Jen Kavanagh, Ellie Miles, Rosamund Lily West, Susanna Cordner, 2024-10-09. Ethics of Contemporary Collecting addresses pressing and pertinent issues around ethical contemporary collecting, reflecting on how practices are evolving or in flux. Across three sections each containing live sector subjects from the climate crisis to digital collecting to centring communities, this book collates a combination of case studies and in-depth chapters by leading practitioners working in the field. These pieces are instructive and provide practical transferable examples of how people have approached these challenges. It highlights examples of leading practice in the field and illustrates ethical approaches to contemporary collecting as work in this area progresses and our conversations about it advance. To reflect this ongoing growth, the book closes with an Activations section of discussion prompts intended to keep the conversations and progress on individual, institutional, and societal levels going. Ethics of Contemporary Collecting is an indispensable tool for informing training and educating the next generation of curators and collection professionals and inspiring future collecting projects. When Michelangelo Was Modern Inge Reist, 2022. Through case studies of collectors, patrons, and agents who redefined collecting and the art market, this volume illuminates how the changing status of the artist, rise of connoisseurship, role of intermediaries, and new patterns of consumption established models for collecting and display that resemble those still practiced today. The book presents new research by recognized scholars who examine the motivations of collectors and agents, emphasizing how their collecting patronage and advocacy could require support of artists whose reputations were not fully established. Together, the essays invite consideration of works that are familiar in art historical terms but less so as markers of the socio-economic shifts of a particular cultural moment. This book evolved from a symposium, When Michelangelo Was Modern: The Art Market and Collecting in Italy 1450-1650, organized by the Center for the History of Collecting that was held at The Frick Collection on April 12 and 13, 2019. Both the book and the symposium were made possible through the generous support of the Robert H. Smith Family Foundation. The book is published in association with The Frick Collection. Collecting the New Bruce Altshuler, 2007-08-12. Twelve distinguished curators discuss the questions, challenges, and faces by museums in acquiring, preserving, and displaying contemporary art. Collecting Early Modern Art (1400-1800) in the U.S. South Lisandra Estevez, 2021-04-09. This volume gathers together recent research from leading scholars specializing in the history of collecting American Southern art. Collections, both public and private, contain rich and representative holdings of Renaissance and Baroque art which remain understudied compared to the collections bracketing the east and west coasts of the United States. This anthology considers how these works of art were acquired for both prominent public and private collections, how they have been curated and displayed in exhibitions, and how they have also been preserved historically. Individual essays address a variety of art media representative of the early modern period in Europe and the Americas. Case studies of specific
