Modern Commercial Aircraft:

Modern Commercial Aircraft William Green,Gordon Swanborough,John Mowinski,1988-09-12 Magnificently illustrated directory of all the world's civil airliners currently in service and under development Special chapters examine the state of the art in aircraft technology flight decks cabins airframes and engines

Modern Commercial Aircraft Jonathan Collins,1995 Over forty of the world's most famous airliners are described and illustrated with full specifications and a brief history of each

Commercial Aircraft Projects Hans-Henrich Altfeld,2016-09-19 When it comes to very highly complex commercially funded product development projects it is not sufficient to apply standard project management techniques to manage and keep them under control Instead they need a project management approach which is perfectly adapted to their complex nature This however may generate additional cost and a dilemma arises because in commercially driven product developments there is the natural tendency to limit the management related costs The development of a new commercial aircraft is no exception In fact it can be regarded as an extreme example of this kind of project This is why it is especially useful to analyse the project management capabilities and practices needed to manage them Cost reductions can still be achieved by concentrating on the essential elements of some project management disciplines to maintain their principal strengths and combining them in a pragmatic way on the basis of an integrated architecture This book goes beyond descriptions of management disciplines found elsewhere in its treatment of the architecture integration necessary to interlink product process and resources data Only with this connectedness can the interoperation of the management essentials yield maximum efficiency and effectiveness Commercial Aircraft Projects Managing the Development of Highly Complex Products proposes an integrated architecture and details step by step how it can be used for the management of commercial aircraft development projects The findings can also be applied to other industrial sectors that produce complex hardware based on design inputs

The Boeing 247 Henry M. Holden,1991 Recounts the early history of the Boeing company looks at the development of the 247 and explains how it revolutionized the air industry

Modern Commercial Aircraft Günter G. Endres,1998 The world of aviation design and technology and air travel in general is a rapidly changing one and Gunter Endres has made this a book to last into the next century

The Global Commercial Aviation Industry Sören Eriksson,Harm-Jan Steenhuis,2015-07-16 This book provides a state of the art overview of the changes and development of the civil international aircraft aviation industry It offers a fully up to date account of the international developments and structure in the aircraft and aviation industries from a number of perspectives which include economic geographical political and technological points of view The aircraft industry is characterized by very complex high technology products produced in relatively small quantities The high technology requirements necessitate a high level of R D In no other industry is it more of inter dependence and cross fertilisation of advanced technology Consequently most of the world's large aircraft companies and technology leaders have been located in Europe and North America During the last few decades many developing countries have tried to build up an internationally competitive aircraft industry. The authors study a number of important issues including the political economy of the aircraft industry, globalization in this industry, innovation, newly industrializing economies and the aircraft industry. This book also explores regional and large aircraft transformation of the aviation industry in Central and Eastern Europe including engines, airlines, airports and airline safety. It will be of great value to students and to researchers seeking information on the aircraft industry and its development in different regions.

Commercial Aircraft Propulsion and Energy Systems Research National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Aeronautics and Space Engineering Board, Committee on Propulsion and Energy Systems to Reduce Commercial Aviation Carbon Emissions, 2016-09-09 The primary human activities that release carbon dioxide (CO<sub>2</sub>) into the atmosphere are the combustion of fossil fuels, coal, natural gas, and oil, to generate electricity, the provision of energy for transportation, and as a consequence of some industrial processes. Although aviation CO<sub>2</sub> emissions only make up approximately 2.0 to 2.5 percent of total global annual CO<sub>2</sub> emissions, research to reduce CO<sub>2</sub> emissions is urgent because: 1) such reductions may be legislated even as commercial air travel grows; 2) because it takes new technology a long time to propagate into and through the aviation fleet; and 3) because of the ongoing impact of global CO<sub>2</sub> emissions. Commercial Aircraft Propulsion and Energy Systems Research develops a national research agenda for reducing CO<sub>2</sub> emissions from commercial aviation. This report focuses on propulsion and energy technologies for reducing carbon emissions from large commercial aircraft, single aisle and twin aisle aircraft that carry 100 or more passengers, because such aircraft account for more than 90 percent of global emissions from commercial aircraft. Moreover, while smaller aircraft also emit CO<sub>2</sub>, they make only a minor contribution to global emissions, and many technologies that reduce CO<sub>2</sub> emissions for large aircraft also apply to smaller aircraft. As commercial aviation continues to grow in terms of revenue passenger miles and cargo ton miles, CO<sub>2</sub> emissions are expected to increase. To reduce the contribution of aviation to climate change, it is essential to improve the effectiveness of ongoing efforts to reduce emissions and initiate research into new approaches.

China and the Global Business Revolution P. Nolan, 2001-07-26

China has used industrial policies to try to build large corporations that can challenge those based in more advanced countries. By the late 1990s the operational mechanism of China's large firms had seen large advances. Simultaneously a revolution has taken place.

in global business systems and China's large firms are even further behind the global leaders than when they began their reforms The WTO will require China to operate rapidly on the global playing field in competition with the world's leading corporations and this increased gap presents a deep challenge for China's business and political leaders Peter Nolan presents here the first in depth case studies of China's large corporations under economic reform combined with systematic benchmarking of these firms against the world's leading corporations The book is an unrivalled resource of information on Chinese businesses and also leads the reader to consider the impact of China's response to its current challenges not only on China itself but on the wider global economy     The Publishers Weekly ,1929
