Making the Modern Turkish Citizen Özge Baykan Calafato,2022-01-27 Featuring over 100 colour images this book explores the photographic self representations of the urban middle classes in Turkey in the 1920s and the 1930s Examining the relationship between photography and gender body space as well as materiality and language its six chapters explore how the production and circulation of vernacular photographs contributed to the making of the modern Turkish citizen in the formative years of the Turkish Republic when nation building secularization and modernization reforms took centre stage Based on an extensive photographic archive the book shows that individuals actively reproduced circulated and negotiated the ideal citizen image imposed by the Kemalist regime reflecting not only state imposed directives but also their class aspirations and other wider social and cultural developments of the period from Western fashion trends and movies to the increasing availability of modern consumer items Calafato also reveals that the freedom from state control afforded by personal cameras allowed the desired image to be sometimes tweaked by incorporating elements from Ottoman and Turkic traditions by pushing the boundaries of gender norms or by introducing playfulness Making the Modern Turkish Citizen offers a valuable portrait of the ongoing political and social changes on the lives of the Turkish middle class and of how they saw and wanted to present themselves privately and publicly

The World, the Text, and the Indian Scott Richard Lyons,2017-03-27 Since the rise of the Native American Renaissance in literature and culture during the American civil rights period a rich critical discourse has been developed to provide a range of interpretive frameworks for the study recovery and teaching of Native American literary and cultural production For the past few decades the dominant framework has been nationalism a critical perspective placing emphasis on specific tribal nations and nationalist concepts While this nationalist intervention has produced important insights and questions regarding Native American literature culture and politics it has not always attended to the important fact that Native texts and writers have also always been globalized The World the Text and the Indian breaks from this framework by examining Native American literature not for its tribal national significance but rather its connections to global transnational and cosmopolitan forces Essays by leading scholars in the field assume that Native American literary and cultural production is global in character even claims to sovereignty and self determination are made in global contexts and influenced by global forces Spanning from the nineteenth century to the present day these analyses of theories texts and methods from trans indigenous to cosmopolitan George Copway to Sherman Alexie and indigenous feminism to book history interrogate the dialects of global indigeneity and settler colonialism in literary and visual culture
