Braine, 1999 Native and Non-Native Teachers in English Language Classrooms Juan de Dios Martinez

Agudo, 2017-05-08 Despite being highly debated in applied linguistics and L2 teaching literature the controversial issue of non nativeness still remains unresolved Contemporary critical research has questioned the theoretical foundations of the nativeness paradigm which still exerts a strong influence in the language teaching profession Written by well known researchers and teacher educators from all over the world both NSs and NNSs the selected contributions of this volume cover a great variety of aspects related to the professional role and status of both NS and NNS teachers in terms of both perceived differences and professional concerns and challenges The strongest aspects of this volume are the global perspectives and the implications for future research and teacher education It is precisely this international perspective which makes this volume illustrative of different realities with a similar objective in mind the improvement of second language teaching and teacher education In today s world being a NS or NNS should not really matter but rather teachers professional competences This publication thus provides a forum of reflection and discussion for all L2 educators who need to be aware of how much they might offer to their future students Learning and Teaching from Experience Lía D.

Kamhi-Stein,2007 The majority teachers of English to speakers of other languages around the world are nonnative speakers of English themselves Learning and Teaching from Experience presents a wide range of views on NNES nonnative English speaking professionals in ESL and EFL settings at various academic levels including K 12 adult education community college and university This informative volume is divided into the sections focusing on theoretical underpinnings research teacher preparation and classroom application specific to issues facing NNES professionals Learning and Teaching from Experience is also one of the first volumes to present work by the founding members of the caucus for nonnative English speakers in the national TESOL professional association who are rightly considered to be experts in the field This book will surely interest NNES teachers and researchers as well as teacher educators and their trainees in the United States and abroad Native or Non-native speakers. Who are the better English teachers? Svenja Christen,2010-01-25 Seminar paper from the year 2008 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Miscellaneous grade 1 language English abstract In today s globalised world language knowledge becomes more and more important for good and skilled communication Especially the knowledge of one language the world language English is necessary to be competitive and able to communicate worldwide The status of English as a world language is obviously due to its large amount of native speakers all over the world but also its simplicity in grammar structure and vocabulary makes it to one of the most important languages in the world There are approximately 380 million native speakers of English and more than 700 non native speakers of English all over the world which results in large parts of today s communication taking place in English Thus good English language knowledge is a precondition for many jobs and educations This places great importance on today s English language education It has to be of high quality and learners have to acquire the language as good and as fast as possible But who can perform the job of an English teacher best There has been lots of discussion in the past years about whether native or non native speakers are better at language teaching Due to globalisation also the amount of English teachers available is rising steadily Today s English teachers come from a broad range of different countries and thus have differing cultural and linguistic backgrounds Those backgrounds have again influence on the teachers teaching styles and methods and their general understanding of the teaching context and their students Moreover today s English teachers have different levels of knowledge of the target language and culture In this paper I will thus have a look at the following question Native speakers of English or non native speakers of English who are the better English teachers Native speakers on the one hand know their language perfectly faultlessly and naturally Non natives on the other hand are more familiar with the students language learning process and have a better understanding of the learners needs Thus who is the ideal language teacher for the challenging task of teaching the world language English

Non-native Educators in English Language Teaching George Braine,2013-10-08 The place of native and non native speakers in the role of English teachers has probably been an issue ever since English was taught internationally Although ESL and EFL literature is awash in fact dependent upon the scrutiny of non native learners interest in non native academics and teachers is fairly new Until recently the voices of non native speakers articulating their own concerns have been even rarer This book is a response to this notable vacuum in the ELT literature providing a forum for language educators from diverse geographical origins and language backgrounds In addition to presenting autobiographical narratives these authors argue sociopolitical issues and discuss implications for teacher education all relating to the theme of non native educators in ETL All of the authors are non native speakers of English Some are long established professionals whereas others are more recent initiates to the field All but one received part of the higher education in North America and all except two of the chapters are at least partially contextualized in North America Particularly relevant for non native speakers who aspire to enter the profession graduate students in TESOL programs and teacher educators the unique nature of this book s contributors and its contents will interest researchers and professionals in applied linguistics generally and in ELT and all those who are concerned with the role of non native speakers in English language teaching

Is it better to learn English from a native or a non-native speaker teacher? Clara Winterfeld,2018-04-12 Essay from the year 2017 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Pedagogy Literature Studies language English abstract For decades there has been a widespread assumption in the field of English language education that native speakers are better teachers They are said to speak unaccented English understand and use idiomatic expressions fluently and completely navigate the culture of at least one English dominant society As a result nonnative English speaking educators have found themselves often implicitly and sometimes explicitly discriminated against native speakers of English Around the world 80 per cent of English language teachers are non native speakers of English But native speakers of English are usually given more value they find it easier to get a job as an English teacher and get in general better payed They are seen as belonging to a higher professional status than non native speakers It is said that as native speakers grew up speaking English they are more acquainted with the language and with that provide a better language education to their students
