Ludwig Persius The Architectural Work Today:

Ludwig Persius Ludwig Persius, Hillert Ibbeken, 2005 Ludwig Persius 1803-1845 architecture was molded by the work of Karl Friedrich Schinkel. He was a master of the disposition of building volumes and of tying buildings into the landscape. About 50 buildings have survived including early industrial structures. Architectural Record, 1928. Friedrich August Stüler Friedrich August Stüler, 2006 Text in English and German. Friedrich Stüler was the third great Prussian architect of the 19th century alongside Karl Schinkel and Ludwig Persius. This book reproduces most of Stüler's important buildings as well as exploring new academic aspects of his work. The essay herein summarizes Stüler's life and work, his relationship with the middle ages, analysis of the museums' influences from the restoration in Prussia, the influence of Schinkel, Persius, and Stüler on later architects. Joyce in the Belly of the Big Truck; Workbook Joyce A. Cascio, 2005-05. Macmillan

Encyclopedia of Architects Adolf K. Placzek, 1982. The Architectural Review, 1993-07. Karl Friedrich Schinkel Karl Friedrich Schinkel, 2007. This delightful book is the first comprehensive guide to all extant buildings of the great German architect Karl Friedrich Schinkel. With detailed descriptions and color illustrations, it takes the reader from Aachen through Potsdam and Berlin to St. Petersburg. On the occasion of his 225th birthday on March 13, 2006, the compact guide on the work of this universally talented architect was published in German. Now it is available in English, detailing almost 150 remaining buildings ranging from churches and palaces to museums, technical buildings and monuments. Schinkel's buildings are spread from the Rhineland to Russia, with a particular focus on Berlin and Potsdam, where Schinkel created his most famous buildings such as the Altes Museum, the buildings on Peacock Island, or the Nikolaikirche in Potsdam. Partners in Design

David A. Hanks, 2015-10-27. The 1920s and 1930s saw the birth of modernism in the United States, a new aesthetic based on the principles of the Bauhaus in Germany, its merging of architecture with fine and applied arts and rational functional design, devoid of ornament and without reference to historical styles. Alfred H. Barr Jr., the then 27-year-old founding director of the Museum of Modern Art, and 23-year-old Philip Johnson, director of its architecture department, were the visionary young proponents of the modern approach. Shortly after meeting at Wellesley College, where Barr taught art history and as Johnson finished his studies in philosophy at Harvard, they set out on a path that would transform the museum world and change the course of design in America. The Museum of Modern Art opened just over a week after the stock market crash of 1929. In the depths of the Depression, using as their laboratories both MoMA and their own apartments in New York City, Barr and Johnson experimented with new ideas in museum ideology, extending the scope beyond painting and sculpture to include architecture, photography, graphic design, furniture, industrial design, and film, with exhibitions of ordinary machine-made objects including ball bearings and kitchenware elevated to art by their elegant design and with installations in dramatically lit galleries with smooth white walls. Partners in Design, which accompanies an exhibition opening at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts in April 2016, chronicles their collaboration, placing it in the larger context of the avant-garde in New York 1930s.

salons where they mingled with Julien Levy the gallerist who brought Surrealism to the United States and Lincoln Kirstein co founder of the New York City Ballet their work to help Bauhaus artists like Josef and Anni Albers escape Nazi Germany and the dissemination of their ideas across the United States through MoMA's traveling exhibition program Plentifully illustrated with icons of modernist design MoMA installation views and previously unpublished images of the Barr and Johnson apartments domestic laboratories for modernism and in Johnson's case designed and furnished by Ludwig Mies van der Rohe this fascinating study sheds new light on the introduction and success in North America of a new kind of modernism thanks to the combined efforts of two uniquely discerning and influential individuals Politics and Culture in Modern Germany Gordon Alexander Craig, 1999 The first of these have essays on the political history of Germany from 1770 to 1866 on new Bismarck biographies by British American and East German historians on the reign of William II as seen by the novelist Heinrich Mann and the sociologist Max Weber on Germany and the First World War on the architects Karl Friedrich Schinkel and Gottfried Semper and on Thomas Mann's diaries and new biographies Architectural Publications Index, 1996
