Journal of Constitutional Law in Eastern and Central Europe, 1996 Constitutional Evolution in Central and Eastern Europe Alexander H.E. Morawa, 2016-12-14 This book examines EU enlargement by studying how domestic constitutional evolution in the new member states contributes to European integration In contrast to the usual top down analytical pattern it reverses the paradigm by looking at constitutional developments and dynamics from the bottom up studying how domestic constitutional evolution contributes to European integration The authors analyze constitutional trends from the perspective of new Member States as policy makers and not strictly as policy takers The issue of conditionality is also explored in a discussion of the extent to which pre 2004 and 2007 conditionality has had lasting effects at the level of constitutionalization of different areas and norms and if so of what kind The exploration of Europeanization effects in recent Member States substantiates and demonstrates how enlargement has been an important driving force for the effective export of EU legal rules in this region

The book utilizes a comparative approach to highlight the merits and obstacles created by the growing diversity in the
