Nice Girl Like Me:

A Nice Girl Like Me Rosie Boycott, 2009-05-05 Rosie Boycott wasn't a typical 1960s Cheltenham Ladies College girl. By the age of 21 she had co-founded the feminist magazine Spare Rib and the feminist publishing house Virago whilst experimenting with drugs, sex and booze. But she wanted more experience, more travel, more passion. An epic motorcycle trip through Asia with her boyfriend John Steinbeck Jr. ended in a Thai jail. But drugs weren't her real problem. Alcohol was. Drinking seemed to defeat the demons in her psyche until it became clear that drinking was her biggest demon of all. How had a nice country girl turned into a drunk? Now a well-known journalist, ex-newspaper editor and chairman of the London Food Board, Rosie made it from the top to the bottom and back again. In this account of her life she never shirks from the truth about herself and in her honesty she gives hope to other women with addictions addressing the hellish predicament of the alcoholic woman with passion and candour.

Girls Coming to Tech! Amy Sue Bix, 2014-01-31 How women coped with both formal barriers and informal opposition to their entry into the traditionally masculine field of engineering in American higher education. Engineering education in the United States was long regarded as masculine territory. For decades women who studied or worked in engineering were popularly perceived as oddities, outcasts, unfeminine or inappropriately feminine in a male world. In Girls Coming to Tech, Amy Bix tells the story of how women gained entrance to the traditionally male field of engineering in American higher education. As Bix explains, a few women breached the gender reinforced boundaries of engineering education before World War II. During World War II, government employers and colleges actively recruited women to train as engineering aides, channeling them directly into defense work. These wartime training programs set the stage for more engineering schools to open their doors to women. Bix offers three detailed case studies of postwar engineering co-education. Georgia Tech admitted women in 1952 to avoid a court case over objections by traditionalists. In 1968, Caltech male students argued that nerds needed a civilizing female presence. At MIT, which had admitted women since the 1870s but treated them as a minor afterthought, feminist era activists pushed the school to welcome more women and take their talent seriously. In the 1950s, women made up less than one percent of students in American engineering programs. In 2010 and 2011, women earned 18.4% of bachelor's degrees, 22.6% of master's degrees and 21.8% of doctorates in engineering. Bix's account shows why these gains were hard won.

Journey to Confidence Kimberly Sowell, 2005 Journey to Confidence is a six-week Bible study that utilizes Acts 17:26-27 as the scriptural foundation for teaching evangelism to women. The content encourages and teaches women to pray daily for boldness, opportunities and words of wisdom. Three significant elements needed for evangelism.
