Violence Against Women in Bangladesh, 2002, 2003 Journal of Rural Development, 2005 Intellectual Property and Public Health in the Developing World Monirul Azam, 2016-05-30 Across the world developing countries are attempting to balance the international standards of intellectual property concerning pharmaceutical patents against the urgent need for accessible and affordable medicines In this timely and necessary book Monirul Azam examines the attempts of several developing countries to walk this fine line He evaluates the experiences of Brazil China India and South Africa for lessons to guide Bangladesh and developing nations everywhere Azam s legal expertise concern for public welfare and compelling grasp of principal case studies make Intellectual Property and Public Health in the Developing World a definitive work The developing world is striving to meet the requirements of the World Trade Organization s TRIPS Agreement on intellectual property This book sets out with lucidity and insight the background of the TRIPS Agreement and its implications for pharmaceutical patents the consequences for developing countries and the efforts of certain representative nations to comply with international stipulations while still maintaining local industry and public health Azam then brings the weight of this research to bear on the particular case of Bangladesh offering a number of specific policy recommendations for the Bangladeshi government and for governments the world over Intellectual Property and Public Health in the Developing World is a must read for public policy makers academics and students non governmental organizations and readers everywhere who are interested in making sure that developing nations meet the health care needs of their people

Children Rights and Wellbeing in India Joseph A Gathia, Sanjay V. Gathia, 2015-01-01 India has emerged as one of the fastest growing markets in the world But what does it mean to its children Of total estimated population in 2014 as 1 236 million nearly 28 5 % are below age of 14 years Despite such a huge child population in India the issues that affect their lives and even survival tend to receive remarkably little attention This study Children s Rights and Well being in India Law Policy and Practice Volume I II and III is one among the few to address this theme on such a wide canvas that spans both time frame and issues There has been a growing interest over the past decade in the concept of child s rights among policy makers practioners and academics in both India and internationally But does it mean the same thing to children and families as it does to policy makers How can it be measured And if it has begun to impact on government policy has it made any difference to children s lives The three volume study Children s Rights and Well being in India provide an overview of key child development policies programmes laws trends and raises pertinence questions about their potential impact on children s rights The challenges of improving children s well being go beyond the provision of more effective public services important though these are The bigger questions are how can we create a society in which children are better valued and parents better supported in bringing up their children And what can be done to reduce inequalities which influence every aspect of children s well being This book makes use of a variety of sources of data including that of Govt of India the World Bank and

UN agencies particularly the UNICEF and the ILO All the three volumes of Children s Rights and Well being in India are an essential text for all those who want to understand the crisis threatening our children s future Green Web-II Medani P. Bhandari,2022-09-01 This second edition of the book Green Web II Standards and Perspectives from the IUCN Program Policy Development in Environment Conservation Domain with reference to India Pakistan Nepal and Bangladesh investigates the IUCN s role in global biodiversity conservation policy as well as in national program development in India Pakistan Nepal and Bangladesh It explores how nature protection priorities and approaches are promoted or addressed by IUCN and how environment conservation policies are created and maintained in states of South Asia with different capacities It also evaluates IUCN s competency in biodiversity climate change nature conservation and environmental policy formulation at the global regional and country levels This book adds to our knowledge firstly by contributing to a small but growing body of work on the sociology of international organizations International Governmental Organizations IGOs have previously been mainly the subject of political science Secondly it critically explores one of the largest and most active nature conservation organizations in the world Thirdly it also explores how IUCN actually goes about building protectoral programs with individual member nations Finally the research also shows the historical development of global institutions and IUCN s activities with member nations in helping to define or redefine the concept of global governance The outcomes of this research will also be beneficial for global collaboration networking and for the identification of common concerns among the many environmental and conservational organizations at the international and national level In this broader sense the research outcomes might be beneficial to constituencies of the global North as well as global South because of the nature and coverage of IUCN and its role in conservation policy formation This effort may serve as a model for additional research on international organizations Technical topics discussed in the book include The Motivation for Environmental Conservation How personal efforts make a difference The Role of International Environment Conservation Organizations The Political Economy of Organizations Network theory Institutional theory Stakeholder theory Governance theory Governance performance and Competitiveness Popularity indices Knowledge creation and diffusion Conservation commons NGO Field Workers in Bangladesh Mokbul Morshed Ahmad,2017 This title was first published in 2002 NGOs are receiving increasing international attention and resources from policy makers donors academics and others The New Policy Agenda accepts NGOs as agents for social welfare alongside the state and as fostering democracy in the Developing World Astonishingly however there have been very few studies and no books on NGO field workers This study of field workers in Bangladesh provides excellent insights into this neglected field Bangladesh is an excellent example as since independence in 1971 it has been a donor dependent country both financially and functionally and since the 1980s has concentrated this funding towards NGOs rather than to the state The book shows how field workers are seen simply as implementers carrying out directions given by their superiors and never being consulted on how best to achieve their goals The book examines four types of NGOs international national regional and small local in a number of sample locations It compares the benefits and facilities provided by each NGO to their field workers then explores the socio economic background of both field workers and their mid level managers and examines the interactions between these two groups and between field workers and their clients It also looks at the field workers personal and professional lives and problems and details their opinions on their NGO s activities and policies and on development The findings show that NGO managers and donors lack knowledge of the realities in the field and do not realise how certain policies such as their positive discrimination of women can have negative results It proposes that NGO field workers should be more active in policy making and puts forward several recommendations for changes in the management and structure of future NGOs Provided by publisher

Corporate Social Responsibility and Development in Pakistan Nadeem Malik,2014-08-13 Corporate Social Responsibility CSR has not only become an important concept for corporate organizations but also civil society community state and the multilateral and bilateral development agencies It has acquired great significance in the aftermath of the global financial crisis of 2008 not only in the advanced economies but also in emerging and developing countries In contemporary Pakistan problems of poverty unemployment illiteracy and human rights violations are frequent These problems cannot be dealt with by the state and civil society alone and call for corporate involvement Backed by rich empirical data based on extensive fieldwork and complemented with the official data sources this book offers a detailed analysis of the socially responsible corporate policies and practices of companies operating in the emerging economy of Pakistan Employing qualitative and quantitative research methods it examines the sensitivity of companies in Pakistan to CSR measured in terms of their policies and perceptions about CRS their CSR development activities perceptions about development Non Governmental Organisations and channels and forms of support for development projects both monetary and non monetary Filling a significant gap in our understanding of an important part of contemporary Pakistan s development and the outlook of companies towards CSR the book will be of interest to policymakers and scholars working in the fields of Development Studies Business Studies and Asian Studies
