

A black and white photograph of several paratroopers descending from the sky. The paratroopers are silhouetted against a dark background filled with stars, suggesting a night sky. The ground below is dark and appears to be a rugged, rocky terrain. The overall mood is mysterious and action-oriented.

It was Morison's aim to show what the U.S. Navy accomplished in the greatest of all wars and how it was done. The story in the main is one of fighting that is what the Navy is for and what its entire effort was directed toward. But the author included enough space to strategic discussions, planning, organization and logistics to explain the end product, the naval operations. And when other armed services of the United States and her allies participated, he brought them in too, although not in so great detail. Filled with many maps, a number of them larger fold-outs and black and white photos of the ships, personnel and operations.
