African Military History

John Lamphear,2017-05-15 This collection of essays on pre colonial sub Saharan African military history is drawn from a number of academic journals and includes some which are considered milestones in African historiographical discourse as well as others which while lesser known provide remarkable insight into the unique nature of African military history Selections were made so as to produce an introduction to the understudied field of pre colonial African military history that will be useful to specialists and non specialists alike The volume also contains an introduction which presents one of the first significant reviews of pre colonial African military historiography ever attempted

Sukuma Labor Songs from Western Tanzania Frank D. Gunderson,2010 This volume is an interpretive analysis of a collection of 335 song texts treated as primary historical sources The collection highlights the cultural practices that link music with labor in Sukuma communities in northwestern Tanzania These linkages are evident in the music of the elephant snake and porcupine hunting associations that flourished in the precolonial epoch in the nineteenth century regional and long distance porter associations and in the farmer associations that have proliferated since the beginning of the twentieth century Acting primarily as an interpretive editor the author collaborated with several Tanzanian scholars and translators towards fine tuning the translation of these texts into English and gathered testimonies in order to create succinct interpretive statements about the songs

People and Production in Late Precolonial Tanzania Juhani Koponen,1988 Violent Intermediaries Michelle R.

Moyd,2014-07-01 The askari African soldiers recruited in the 1890s to fill the ranks of the German East African colonial army occupy a unique space at the intersection of East African history German colonial history and military history Praised by Germans for their loyalty during the East Africa campaign of World War I but reviled by Tanzanians for the violence they committed during the making of the colonial state between 1890 and 1918 the askari have been poorly understood as historical agents Violent Intermediaries situates them in their everyday household community military and constabulary roles as men who helped make colonialism in German East Africa By linking microhistories with wider nineteenth century African historical processes Michelle Moya shows how as soldiers and colonial intermediaries the askari built the colonial state while simultaneously carving out paths to respectability becoming men of influence within their local contexts Through its focus on the making of empire from the ground up Violent Intermediaries offers a fresh perspective on African colonial troops as state making agents and critiques the mythologies surrounding the askari by focusing on the nature of colonial violence

Buying Time Thomas F. McDow,2018-05-25 In Buying Time Thomas F McDow synthesizes Indian Ocean Middle Eastern and East African studies as well as economic and social history to explain how in the nineteenth century credit mobility and kinship knit together a vast interconnected Indian Ocean region That vibrant and enormously influential swath extended from the desert fringes of Arabia to Zanzibar and the Swahili coast and on to the Congo River watershed In the half century before European colonization Africans and Arabs from coasts and hinterlands used newfound sources of credit to seek out opportunities establish new outposts in distant places and maintain families in a rapidly changing economy They used temporizing strategies to escape drought in Oman join ivory caravans in the African interior and build new settlements The key to McDow's analysis is a previously unstudied trove of Arabic business deeds that show complex variations on the financial transactions that underwrote the trade economy across the region The documents list names genealogies statuses and clan names of a wide variety of people Africans Indians and Arabs men and women free and slave who bought sold and mortgaged property Through unprecedented use of these sources McDow moves the historical analysis of the Indian Ocean beyond connected port cities to reveal the roles of previously invisible people
