Misery Prefigured:

Misery Prefigured J Allyn Rosser, 2001-04-09 In her second collection of poems J Allyn Rosser explores the human condition in all its gloriously valiant pathos Misery Prefigured dwells on our continual reinventions of self and world and the restless dynamic that vibrates between them Whether contemplating a failed marriage a visit from God or a pearl dropped into a bottle of Prell shampoo Rosser's wry yet impassioned eye looks hard for a habitable and abiding truth Alternating between deadpan and dead serious these poems are often darkly funny exposing the contradictions inherent in every desire Misery Prefigured is fueled by a cocky unsentimental determination to make some consolatory sense of what passes for reality

Lacemakers Claire McQuerry, 2012-01-19 In Lacemakers Claire McQuerry investigates the timeless questions of relationships of loss and longing and of environment both natural and manmade This informal yet haunting collection juxtaposes a myriad of perspectives public and personal interior and exterior sacred and secular to explore the fathomless mysteries that abound between one human and another From the metallic hum of the air conditioner to the thrumming of quail wings in the Arizona desert from the necklace of brake lights on the freeway to the more dangerous and intimate highways of the human heart McQuerry explores the impact of our environments both urban and natural on humankind Spirituality clashes with modernity in the holiest of places and we are relentlessly confronted with the irreconcilable otherness of our fellow man Above all Lacemakers returns obsessively to separations offering searing insight into our inability to truly know another person meditating on the subtle abysses that eternally divide us from others

The River Where You Forgot My Name Corrie Williamson, 2019-10-03 Winner Montana Book Award Honor Book 2019 The River Where You Forgot My Name travels between early 1800s Virginia and Missouri and present day western Montana a place where bats sail the river of dark In their crosscutting the poems in this collection reflect on American progress technology exploration and environment and the ever changing landscape at the intersection of wilderness and civilization Three of the book's five sections follow poet Corrie Williamson's experiences while living for five years in western Montana The remaining sections are persona poems written in the voice of Julia Hancock Clark wife of William Clark who she married soon after he returned from his western expedition with Meriwether Lewis Julia lived with Clark in the then frontier town of St Louis until her early death in 1820 She offers a foil for the poet's first person Montana narrative and enriches the historical perspective of the poetry providing a female voice to counterbalance the often male centered discovery and frontier narrative The collection shines with all too human moments of levity tragedy and beauty such as when Clark names a river Judith after his future wife not knowing that everyone calls her Julia or when the poet on a hike to Goldbug Hot Springs imagines a mercury poisoned Lewis waking with the dawn between his teeth Williamson turns a curious and critical eye on the motives and impact of expansionism unpacking some of the darker ramifications of American hunger for land and resources These poems combine breathtaking natural beauty with backbreaking human labor all in the search for something that approaches grace

Becoming Ebony Patricia Jabbeh Wesley, 2003-03-12 Recapturing the celebratory voice of Africa in poems that are both contemporary and traditional Liberian born Patricia Jabbeh Wesley weaves lyrical storytelling with oral history and images of Africa and America revealing powerful insights about the relationship between strength and tragedy and finding reason to celebrate even in the presence of war difficulties and death Rooted in myths that can be traced to the Grebo tradition Becoming Ebony portrays Liberian born Wesley's experiences of village talk and civil war as well as her experiences of the pain of her mother's death and the difficulties of rearing a family away from home in the United States and explores the questions of living in the African Diaspora Turning on the African proverb of the wandering child and the metaphor of the ebony tree which is beautiful in life and death these poems delve into issues of human suffering and survival plainly and beautifully chronicling what happens after the sap is gone

Readings and Critical Notes on the Difficult Texts of Sacred Scripture Thomas Richard BROWN, 1848

Persephone in America Alison Townsend, 2009-02-25 In Persephone in America Alison Townsend deftly weaves autobiography with myth in this reinvention of the tale of Demeter and Persephone as seen from the modern woman's perspective Fraught with emotional honesty this captivating collection of lyrical and narrative poems chronicles the struggles of the figurative Persephone in three parts the abduction descent to the underworld and return Townsend turns a shrewd eye to her own experiences as well as to the lives of other women to offer an unflinching yet deeply compassionate exploration of such themes as girlhood and the vulnerability of the motherless the demons of depression addiction and abuse as well as passion aging and celebration of the natural world Although the poems traverse dark emotional territory at times the picture that emerges ultimately is one of revelation and wisdom Persephone in America is above all a journey of the soul following the narrator as she explores what it means to be a woman in America at times descending into darkness only to emerge into redemption and realize time's sweet and invincible secret that everything repeats and we watch it Townsend's candid portrait of female loss and discovery seeks to illuminate the truths inherent in myth and the awakenings that hide in our darkest moments Persephone Pretending Madison Wisconsin When the news says that the girl who had been missing almost four days only to be found in a marshy area at the edge of our medium sized city was faking it all along I wondered what made her do it I'd seen her face bright smile dark eyes on a flier masking taped to a pillar at the airport the week before felt the involuntary frisson of the curious then only fear at the thought of a girl abducted in this place once voted America's most livable city She must have wanted something she couldn't name that good girl with good grades who looks like so many girls in my own classes but who keeps changing her story It happened here no it happened there no I really just wanted to be alone Then she turns her face away tired of telling her tale not sure what to make up next or where invention will take her Fictitious victimization disorder Time magazine claims but I wonder what else imagining her in the marsh cold unrepentant powerless her mind gone muddy with lack of sleep no way out of this lie she almost believes or the lies ahead nothing but memory of the rope duct tape cough medicine and knife she bought at the PDQ with her own cash wanting to be taken by someone so badly she takes us she does it to herself The Swallow Anthology of New American Poets David Yezzi, 2009-09 The Swallow Anthology of New American Poets gathers the work of thirty five of the most compelling and talented new poets writing today Groundbreaking anthologies of this kind come along once in a generation and in time define that generation The Swallow Anthology identifies a group of poets who have recently begun to make an important mark on contemporary poetry and their accomplishment and influence will only grow with time The poets of The Swallow Anthology do not constitute a school or movement rather they are a group of unique artists working at the top of their craft As editor David Yezzi writes in his introduction Here is a group of poets who have perhaps for the first time since the modernist revolution returned to a happy détente between warring camps This is a new kind of poet who dissatisfied with the climate of extremes has found a balance between innovation and received form the terror beneath the classical and the order underpinning the romantic This new unified sensibility is no watered down admixture no easy compromise but rather the vital spirit behind the most accomplished poetry being written by America's new poets Poets include Craig Arnold David Barber Rick Barot Priscilla Becker Geoffrey Brock Dan Brown Peter Campion Bill Coyle Morri Creech Erica Dawson Ben Downing Andrew Feld John Foy Jason Gray George Green Joseph Harrison Ernest Hilbert Adam Kirsch Joanie Mackowski Eric McHenry Molly McQuade Joshua Mehigan Wilmer Mills Joe Osterhaus J Allyn Rosser A E Stallings Pimone Triplett Catherine Tufariello Deborah Warren Rachel Wetzsteon Greg Williamson Christian Wiman Mark Wunderlich David Yezzi and C Dale Young The Universalist's Book of Reference Everet Emmett Guild, 1881 The Publishers Weekly, 2001 Poetry, 2006 The Doctrinal Theology of the Evangelical Lutheran Church Heinrich Schmid, 1899 Forthcoming Books Rose Army, 2001 Christopher Columbus and how He Received and Imparted the Spirit of Discovery Justin Winsor, 1892 Mediaev. Stud, 1960 How to Become a Published Author, 2008 Midamerica, 2003 What Women Watched Marsha F. Cassidy, 2005-05 In this pathfinding book based on original archival research Marsha F Cassidy offers the first thorough analysis of daytime television's earliest and most significant women's genres appraising from a feminist perspective what women watched before soap opera rose to prominence After providing a comprehensive history of the early days of women's programming across the nation Cassidy offers a critical discussion of the formats programs and celebrities that launched daytime TV in America Kate Smith's variety show and the famed singer's unsuccessful transition from patriotic radio star to 1950s TV idol the charm boys Garry Moore Arthur Godfrey and Art Linkletter whose programs honored women's participation but in the process established the dominance of male hosts on TV and the misery shows Strike It Rich and Glamour Girl and the controversy both critical and legal they stirred up Cassidy then turns to NBC's Home show starring the urbane Arlene Francis who infused the homemaking format with Manhattan sophistication and the ambitious daily anthology drama Matinee Theater which strove to differentiate itself from soap opera and become a national theater of the air She concludes with an analysis of four popular audience participation shows of the era the runaway hit Queen for a Day Ralph Edwards's daytime show of surprises It Could Be You Who Do You Trust starring a youthful Johnny Carson and The Big Payoff featuring Bess Myerson the country's first Jewish Miss America Cassidy's close feminist reading of these shows clearly demonstrates how daytime TV mirrored the cultural pressures inconsistencies and ambiguities of the postwar era

Foiled Again Allyn J. Rosser, 2007-09-27 The seventh winner of the annual New Criterion Poetry Prize is J Allyn Rosser's Foiled Again Ms Rosser's third poetry collection contains poems of startling range and depth with formal poems traditional hybrid and nonce and just as many shaped by the loopy trajectory of their associative momentum At the heart of Rosser's work is a kind of crazed optimism a quixotic wryly cheerful pilgrimage through the maze of bafflement loneliness and love that constitutes our experience
