Neglected American Women Writers of the Long Nineteenth Century Verena Laschinger, Sirpa Salenius, 2019-04-02. Neglected American Women Writers of the Long Nineteenth Century edited by Verena Laschinger and Sirpa Salenius is a collection of essays that offer a fresh perspective and original analyses of texts by American women writers of the long nineteenth century. The essays, which are written both by European and American scholars, discuss fiction by marginalized authors including Yolanda DuBois, African American fairy tales, Laura E. Richards' children's literature, Metta Fuller Victor, dime novels, detective fiction, and other pioneering writers of science fiction, gothic tales, and life narratives. The works covered by this collection represent the rough and ragged realities that women and girls in the nineteenth century experienced. The writings focus on their education, family life, and girls as victims of class prejudice as well as sexual and racial violence but they also portray girls and women as empowering agents survivors and leaders They do so with a high voltage creative charge As progressive pioneers who forayed into unknown literary terrain and experimented with a variety of genres the neglected American women writers introduced in this collection themselves emerge as role models whose innovative contribution to nineteenth century literature the essays celebrate (Re)Interpretations Lisa Dresdner, Laurel S. Making Public in a

Privatized World David A. McDonald, 2016-02-15 How do we provide effective public services in a deeply neoliberal world? In the wake of the widespread failure of privatisation efforts societies in the global south are increasingly seeking progressive ways of recreating the public sector. With contributors ranging from cutting edge scholars to activists working in health, water and energy provision and with case studies covering a broad spectrum of localities and actors. Making Public in a Privatized World uncovers the radically different ways in which public services are being reshaped from the grassroots up. From communities holding the state accountable for public health in rural Guatemala to waste pickers in India and decentralized solar electricity initiatives in Africa the essays in this collection offer probing insights into the complex ways in which people are building genuine alternatives to privatization while also illustrating the challenges which communities face in creating public services which are not subordinated to the logic of the market or to the monolithic state entities of the past.

Democratic Institutions in Guatemala Omar Sanchez-Sibony, 2024-12-20 Democratic Institutions in Guatemala: Theory and Practice advances knowledge about Guatemala's democracy by embedding the country in recent conceptual and theoretical work in comparative politics. This volume sheds light upon the stubborn realities and challenges afflicting Guatemalan democracy during the post Peace Accords era. Each chapter delves into the main democratic institutions, informal practices and players shaping the operative political game: elections, Congress, the Judiciary, the high courts, presidentialism, criminal actors, political parties, the political left and political right, and the peak business association, CACIF. This book seeks to escape the perils of parochialism by placing the country within larger scholarly debates and paradigms.

Clientelism, Social Policy, and the Quality of Democracy Diego Abente Brun, Larry Diamond, 2014-03 Abente Brun and Diamond invited some of the best social scientists in the field to systematically explore how political clientelism works and evolves in the context of modern developing democracies with particular reference to social policies aimed at reducing poverty. Clientelism, Social Policy and the Quality of Democracy is balanced between a section devoted to understanding clientelism's infamous effects and history in Latin America and a section that draws out implications for other regions specifically Africa, Southeast Asia and Eastern and Central Europe.
