Museums In Crisis:

Museums in Crisis Brian O'Doherty,1972      The Museum Samuel J. Redman,2024-10 Celebrates the resilience of American cultural institutions in the face of national crises and challenges On an afternoon in January 1865 a roaring fire swept through the Smithsonian Institution Dazed soldiers and worried citizens could only watch as the flames engulfed the museum's castle Rare objects and valuable paintings were destroyed The flames at the Smithsonian were not the first and certainly would not be the last disaster to upend a museum in the United States Beset by challenges ranging from pandemic and war to fire and economic uncertainty museums have sought ways to emerge from crisis periods stronger than before occasionally carving important new paths forward in the process The Museum explores the concepts of crisis as it relates to museums and how these historic institutions have dealt with challenges ranging from depression and war to pandemic and philosophical uncertainty Fires floods and hurricanes have all upended museum plans and forced people to ask difficult questions about American cultural life With chapters exploring World War I and the 1918 influenza pandemic the Great Depression World War II the 1970 Art Strike in New York City and recent controversies in American museums this book takes a new approach to understanding museum history By diving deeper into the changes that emerged from these key challenges Samuel J Redman argues that cultural institutions can and should use their history to prepare for challenges and solidify their identity going forward A captivating examination of crisis moments in US museum history from the early years of the twentieth century to the present day The Museum offers inspiration in the resilience and longevity of America's most prized cultural institutions

Museums in Crisis ,1972      In the Crossfire of the Culture Wars James B.

Cuno,Harvard University. Art Museums,1995      Art Museums in Financial Crisis Art Museum Association (U.S.). Annual Conference,1981      Museums beyond the Crises Zdenka Badovinac,Bartomeu Marí,2015-10-05 There are a number of different crises in various guises in today's world The most prominent of these is the global economic crisis but this is not felt as keenly across the globe there are also countries of economic prosperity There is also however the museum crisis the predominant model of the museum is collapsing Again this crisis is not constant everywhere there are spaces that didn't have museums until recently and are now suddenly experiencing a museum boom or else are still without museums but have initiatives that are taking care of heritage beyond the traditional model of the museum Such crises mean that the old paradigm is being replaced by a new one that still needs to be defined This book investigates what such a new paradigm may entail and its consequences for the preservation of heritage      Crisis, Reinvention and Resilience in Museums Philip W. Deans,2024-10-08 This book explores museum crises Through an investigation into the experience of the Imperial War Museum during the Second World War era 1933-1950 it considers how crises disrupt museums and the contrasting defensive and revolutionary strategies which museums must adopt when mitigating crises It is situated in a small but emergent literature concerning museums and crisis Existing works mainly comprise contemporary studies on difficult museum experiences predominantly financial difficulty wherein the term crisis has been applied to describe an institution's general state of malaise. This book by contrast presents an innovative and groundbreaking historical case study on a single museum facing wholesale physical and ideological collapse, deploying original crisis concepts to analyse different critical situations and the pathology underlying them.

Museum Flack Steve

Lott, 2025-09-04 In recent years museums have found themselves on the front pages for all the wrong reasons. News coverage once reserved for exciting exhibits or landmark donations now shines a harsh spotlight on controversies, leadership disputes, funding flaws, political orders, and an array of reputational crises. Two thirds of museum leaders report feeling unprepared when facing journalists with many describing their first media crisis as overwhelming and damaging. These stories broadcast to national audiences shape public perceptions in minutes, sometimes undoing years of careful work. The heart of the issue lies in a critical and often overlooked gap: while museum directors typically master museum administration, curatorial, or educational work, few possess the training or experience needed to respond to relentless media scrutiny. Nearly every museum, from the largest institution to local history centers, struggles with limited resources. This gap has led to missed opportunities for positive news coverage and, in some cases, public misunderstandings that have hurt careers and endangered institutional trust.

Museum Flack arrives at this moment to fill the void: an essential guide for everyone from students entering the field to seasoned executives and board members. Drawing from lessons learned in high-stakes media campaigns in aerospace and technology, and enriched by illuminating museum-specific case studies, this book lays out exactly how museum professionals can shape compelling narratives for the media. Turn crisis moments into opportunities for trust building. Secure positive national news coverage with thoughtful planning, not enormous budgets. Confidently navigate the modern media landscape, from newspapers to TikTok.

Museum Flack unpacks the techniques behind headlines and empowers any museum professional to advocate for their institution, safeguard its reputation, and seize the media spotlight for all the right reasons.

Every chapter offers step-by-step tactics and real-world examples, transforming complex communications challenges into clear, actionable strategies. The time to master museum public relations is now. Readers who embrace these lessons will champion their institutions, protect their legacies, and help museums thrive even under the sharpest media lens.

The Disobedient Museum Kylie Message, 2017-09-22

The Disobedient Museum Writing at the Edge aims to motivate disciplinary thinking to reimagine writing about museums as an activity where resistant forms of thinking, seeing, feeling, and acting can be produced and to theorize this process as a form of protest against disciplinary stagnation.

Drawing on a range of cultural, theoretical, and political approaches, Kylie Message examines potential links between methods of critique today and moments of historical and disciplinary crisis and asks what contribution museums might make to these either as direct actors or through activities that sit more comfortably within their institutional remit Identifying the process of writing about museums as a form of activism that brings together and elaborates on cultural and political agendas for change the book explores how a process of engaged critique might benefit museum studies what this critique might look like and how museum studies might make a contribution to discourses of social and political change The Disobedient Museum is the first volume in Routledge's innovative Museums in Focus series and will be of great interest to scholars and students in the fields of Museum Heritage Public History and Cultural Studies It should also be essential reading for museum practitioners particularly those engaged with questions about the role of museums in regard to social activism and contentious contemporary challenges     A History of Participation in Museums and Archives Per Hetland, Palmyre Pierroux, Line Esborg, 2020-03-17 Traversing disciplines A History of Participation in Museums and Archives provides a framework for understanding how participatory modes in natural cultural and scientific heritage institutions intersect with practices in citizen science and citizen humanities Drawing on perspectives in cultural history science and technology studies and media and communication theory the book explores how museums and archives make science and cultural heritage relevant to people's everyday lives while soliciting their assistance and participation in research and citizen projects More specifically the book critically examines how different forms of engagement are constructed how concepts of democratization are framed and enacted and how epistemic practices in science and the humanities are transformed through socio technological infrastructures Tracking these central themes across disciplines and research from Europe Canada Australia and the United States the book simultaneously considers their relevance for museum and heritage studies A History of Participation in Museums and Archives should be essential reading for a broad academic audience including scholars and students in museum and heritage studies digital humanities and the public communication of science and technology It should also be of great interest to museum professionals working to foster public engagement through collaboration with networks and local community groups     Museum ,1977     The Journal of Museum Education ,1988     Crisis and opportunity ,2003     Museums and National Service Francis Arthur Bather, 1914     Museums & National Life Sir Frederic George Kenyon, 1927     Museum and the War Francis Arthur Bather, 1915
