Music For Torching:

Music for Torching A. M. Homes, 2009-10-13 As A M Homes's incendiary novel unfolds the Kodacolor hues of the good life become nearly hallucinogenic. Laying bare the foundations of a marriage flash frozen in the anxious entropy of a suburban subdivision, Paul and Elaine spin the quiet terrors of family life into a fantastical frenzy that careens out of control. From a strange and hilarious encounter with a Stepford Wife neighbor to an ill-conceived plan for a tattoo to a sexy cop who shows up at all the wrong moments to a housecleaning team in space suits a mistress calling on a cell phone and a hostage situation at a school, A M Homes creates characters so outrageously flawed and deeply human that they are entirely believable.

1973, Torch Singing Stacy Holman Jones, 2007-07-08 In this innovative book, Stacy Holman Jones presents torch singing as a much more complicated phenomenon than the familiar trope of a woman lamenting her victimhood. With an ethnographer's eye, she observes the bluesy torch singers asking if they are possibly performing critiques of the very lyrics they sing. From this perspective, we see the singer giving expression not only to desire but also to an incipient determination to resist and change. Holman Jones also reveals points of contact in the opposition between spectators and performers: emotion and intellect, and love and power. Instead of interpreting the expression of love as a woman's violent mistake as willing deception and passive fate, Holman Jones allows us to hear an active search for hope.

Succeeding Postmodernism Mary K. Holland, 2013-04-25 While critics collect around the question of what comes after postmodernism, this book asks something different about recent American fiction: what if we are seeing not the end of postmodernism but its belated success? Succeeding Postmodernism examines how novels by DeLillo, Wallace, Danielewski, Foer, and others conceptualize threats to individuals and communities posed by a poststructural culture of mediation and simulation and possible ways of resisting the disaffected solipsism bred by that culture. Ultimately, it finds that twenty-first-century American fiction sets aside the postmodern problem of how language does or does not mean in order to raise the reassuringly retro question of what it can and does mean. It finds that novels today offer language as solution to the problem of language. Thus, it suggests a new way of reading antihumanist late postmodern fiction and a framework for understanding postmodern and twenty-first-century fiction as participating in a long and newly enlivened tradition of humanism and realism in literature.

"All-Electric" Narratives Rachele Dini, 2021-10-07 Winner of the 2023 Emily Toth Award for Best Single Work in Women's Studies, All Electric Narratives is the first in-depth study of time-saving electrical appliances in American literature. It examines the literary depiction of refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, oven ranges, washing machines, dryers, dishwashers, toasters, blenders, standing and hand-held mixers, and microwave ovens between 1945, when the all-electric home came to be associated with the nation's hard-won victory, and 2020, as contemporary writers consider the enduring material and spiritual effects of these objects in the 21st century. The appropriation and subversion of the rhetoric of domestic electrification and time-saving comprises a crucial but overlooked element in 20th-century literary forms and genres.

including Beat literature Black American literature second wave feminist fiction science fiction and postmodernist fiction Through close readings of dozens of literary texts alongside print and television ads from this period Dini shows how US writers have unearthed the paradoxes inherent to claims of appliances capacity to give back time to their user transport them into a technologically progressive future or return them to some pastoral past In so doing she reveals literary appliances role in raising questions about gender norms and sexuality racial exclusion and erasure class anxieties the ramifications of mechanization the perils and possibilities of conformity the limitations of patriotism and the inevitable fallacy of utopian thinking while both shaping and radically disrupting the literary forms in which they operated
