Orange Empire California And The Fruits Of Eden:

Orange Empire Doug Sackman, 2005-02-07 This innovative history of California opens up new vistas on the interrelationship among culture nature and society by focusing on the state's signature export the orange From the 1870s onward California oranges were packaged in crates bearing colorful images of an Edenic landscape This book demystifies those lush images revealing the orange as a manufactured product of the state's orange industry Orange Empire brings together for the first time the full story of the orange industry how growers scientists and workers transformed the natural and social landscape of California turning it into a factory for the production of millions of oranges That industry put up billboards in cities across the nation and placed enticing pictures of sun-kissed fruits into nearly every American's home It convinced Americans that oranges could be consumed as embodiments of pure nature and talismans of good health But as this book shows the tables were turned during the Great Depression when Upton Sinclair Carey McWilliams Dorothea Lange and John Steinbeck made the Orange Empire into a symbol of what was wrong with America's relationship to nature

The Georgia Peach William Thomas Okie, 2016-11-22 Imprinted on license plates plastered on billboards stamped on the tail side of the state quarter and inscribed on the state map the peach is easily Georgia's most visible symbol Yet Prunus persica itself is surprisingly rare in Georgia and it has never been central to the southern agricultural economy Why then have southerners and Georgians in particular clung to the fruit The Georgia Peach Culture Agriculture and Environment in the American South shows that the peach emerged as a viable commodity at a moment when the South was desperate for a reputation makeover This agricultural success made the fruit an enduring cultural icon despite the increasing difficulties of growing it A delectable contribution to the renaissance in food writing The Georgia Peach will be of great interest to connoisseurs of food southern environmental rural and agricultural history

Trees in Paradise Jared Farmer, 2013-10-21 From roots to canopy a lush verdant history of the making of California California now has more trees than at any time since the late Pleistocene This green landscape however is not the work of nature It's the work of history In the years after the Gold Rush American settlers remade the California landscape harnessing nature to their vision of the good life Horticulturists boosters and civic reformers began to improve the bare brown countryside planting millions of trees to create groves wooded suburbs and landscaped cities They imported the blue-green eucalypts whose tangy fragrance was thought to cure malaria They built the lucrative Orange Empire on the sweet juice and thick skin of the Washington navel an industrial fruit They lined their streets with graceful palms to announce that they were not in the Midwest anymore To the north the majestic coastal redwoods inspired awe and invited exploitation A resource in the state the durable heartwood of these timeless giants became infrastructure transformed by the saw teeth of American enterprise By 1900 timber firms owned the entire redwood forest by 1950 they had clear-cut almost all of the old growth trees In time California's new landscape proved to be no paradise the eucalypts in the Berkeley hills exploded in fire the orange groves near Riverside froze on cold nights Los Angeles's palms harbored rats and dropped heavy fronds on the streets below Disease infestation and development all spelled decline for these nonnative evergreens In the north however a new forest of second growth redwood took root nurtured by protective laws and sustainable harvesting Today there are more California redwoods than there were a century ago Rich in character and story Trees in Paradise is a dazzling narrative that offers an insightful new perspective on the history of the Golden State and the American West

Seeing Nature Through Gender Virginia Scharff, 2003 Environmental history has traditionally told the story of Man and Nature Scholars have too frequently overlooked the ways in which their predominantly male subjects have themselves been shaped by gender Seeing Nature through Gender here reintroduces gender as a meaningful category of analysis for environmental history showing how women s actions desires and choices have shaped the world and seeing men as gendered actors as well In thirteen essays that show how gendered ideas have shaped the ways in which people have represented experienced and consumed their world Virginia Scharff and her coauthors explore interactions between gender and environment in history Ranging from colonial borderlands to transnational boundaries from mountaintop to marketplace they focus on historical representations of humans and nature on questions about consumption on environmental politics and on the complex reciprocal relations among human bodies and changing landscapes They also challenge the ecofeminist position by challenging the notion that men and women are essentially different creatures with biologically different destinies Each article shows how a person or group of people in history have understood nature in gendered terms and acted accordingly often with dire consequences for other people and organisms Here are considerations of the ways we study sexuality among birds of William Byrd s masking sexual encounters in his account of an eighteenth century expedition of how the ecology of fire in a changing built environment has reshaped firefighters own gendered identities Some are playful as in a piece on the evolution of snow bunnies to shred betties Others are dead serious as in a chilling portrait of how endocrine disrupters are reinventing humans animals and water systems from the cellular level out Aiding and adding significantly to the enterprise of environmental history Seeing Nature through Gender bridges gender history and environmental history in unexpected ways to show us how the natural world can remake the gendered patterns we ve engraved on ourselves and on the planet

Bird versus Bulldozer Audrey L Mayer, 2021-03-09 An examination of the struggle to conserve biodiversity in urban regions told through the story of the threatened coastal California gnatcatcher The story of the rare coastal California gnatcatcher is a parable for understanding the larger ongoing struggle to conserve biodiversity in regions confronted with intensifying urban development Because this gnatcatcher depends on vanishing coastal sage scrub in Southern California it has been regarded as a flagship species for biodiversity protection since the early 1990s But the uncertainty of the gnatcatcher s taxonomic classification and whether it can be counted as a listable unit under the Endangered Species Act has provoked contentious debate among activists scientists urban developers and policy makers Synthesizing insights from ecology environmental history public policy analysis and urban planning as she tracks these debates over the course of the past twenty five years Audrey L Mayer presents an ultimately optimistic take on the importance of much neglected regional conservation planning strategies to create sustainable urban landscapes that benefit humans and wildlife alike

Where Minds and Matters Meet Volker Janssen (Historian), 2012 The American West where such landmarks as the Golden Gate Bridge rival wild landscapes in popularity and iconic significance has been viewed as a frontier of technological innovation Where Minds and Matters Meet calls attention to the convergence of Western history and the history of technology showing that the region s politics and culture have shaped seemingly placeless global technological practices and institutions Drawing on political and social history as well as art history the book s essays take the cultural measure of the region s great technological milestones including San Diego s Panama California Exposition the building of the Hetch Hetchy Dam in the Sierras and traffic planning in Los Angeles Contributors Amy Bix Louise Nelson Dyble Patrick McCray Linda Nash Peter Neushul Matthew W Roth Bruce Sinclair L Chase Smith Carlene Stephens Aristotle Tympas Jason Weems Peter Westwick Stephanie Young
