Journalists working in authoritarian countries contend with competing institutional logics This is particularly the case in post conflict countries where journalistic practice is simultaneously shaped by historical antagonisms global development initiatives and the authoritarian state While journalism schools and professional organizations speak a Western logic of objectivity and independence political history instills a logic of subordination and organizational business models instill a logic of financially motivated censorship As more countries move away from democratic models more and more journalists will face these seemingly irreconcilable pressures Building on months of ethnographic work Ruth Moon looks at journalistic practice in Rwanda a country where journalism has developed into a stable field in the two and a half decades since the nation s 1994 genocide At the same time its journalists facing pressure to please the State have lost confidence in themselves and readers have lost faith in local media Can the nation s news media reinvigorate itself either from within or with assistance from global journalism actors This book examines journalism practice in Rwanda to draw conclusions applicable to journalism fields everywhere Moon argues that not only is the force of globalization inadequate to shift local practice but it in fact serves to reinforce local practices and boundaries      Lenin and Trotsky - What they really stood for Alan Woods,Ted Grant, The ideas of Lenin and Trotsky are without doubt the most distorted and slandered ideas in history For more than 100 years they have been subjected to an onslaught from the apologists of capitalism who have attempted to present their ideas Bolshevism as both totalitarian and utopian An entire industry was developed in an attempt to equate the crimes of Stalinism with the regime of workers democracy that existed under Lenin and Trotsky It is now more than fifty years since the publication of the first edition of this work It was written as a reply to Monty Johnstone who was a leading theoretician of the Communist Party of Great Britain Johnstone had published a reappraisal of Leon Trotsky in the Young Communist League s journal Cogito at the end of 1968 Alan Woods and Ted Grant used the opportunity to write a detailed reply explaining the real relationship between the ideas of Lenin and Trotsky This was no academic exercise It was written as an appeal to the ranks of the Communist Party and the Young Communist League to rediscover the truth about Trotsky and return to the original revolutionary programme of Lenin Also included in this new edition is Monty Johnstone s original Cogito article as well as
