New Vernacular Architecture:

New Vernacular Architecture Vicky Richardson, 2001 New Vernacular Architecture considers the synthesis of modernity and tradition in contemporary architecture. Focusing on 37 international examples of buildings of different types completed in the last decade it examines architecture that reinterprets rather than revives traditional forms, materials and construction techniques. The projects covered range from better known works by renowned architects such as Michael Graves, Renzo Piano and David Chipperfield to less familiar buildings in Hungary, Nepal, Latvia and elsewhere. The fragmentation of nation states and the greater plurality of political and cultural identities that have occurred over recent years have led to a growing reaction in architecture against global blanding the worldwide homogenization of images and designs. As a result local context, materials and culture are becoming increasingly important concerns for many architects. Architecture has captured the public imagination as a means of lending form to evolving regional identity and as a way of reflecting difference. Each project features a thoroughly researched and detailed commentary and is generously illustrated with photographs, sketches and plans.

BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved Lessons from Vernacular Architecture Willi Weber, Simos Yannas, 2013-08-15 The architectural community has had a strong and continuing interest in traditional and vernacular architecture. Lessons from Vernacular Architecture takes lessons directly from traditional and vernacular architecture and offers them to the reader as guidance and inspiration for new buildings. The appropriate technical and social solutions provided by vernacular and traditional architecture are analysed in detail. International case studies focus on environmental design aspects of traditional architecture in a broad range of climatic conditions and building types.

Learning from Vernacular Pierre Frey, 2010 In 1964 Bernard Rudofsky curated the exhibition Architecture Without Architects at The Museum of Modern Art in New York thereby drawing the attention of the postwar Western public to traditional architectures rescuing them from the ignominy to which they had been consigned by the national ideologies of Europe in the 1930s. In the early 1980s Ivan Illich published a number of radical critiques of modernity in which he drew attention to vernacular values proposing a trenchant but hospitable definition of this term. It derives from Roman law in which everything produced within the household for consumption within the household and not for sale or exchange is vernacular. In order to locate this proposition within the field of architectural criticism this book borrows with ironic intent part of the title of Robert Venturi's celebrated work Learning from Las Vegas 1977 which launched the fashion for post modernism in architecture. Taking advantage of a collection of maquettes of vernacular architecture the only one of its kind in the world whose special attributes he highlights and whose value he underlines the author selects contemporary realisations by architects from Africa, Asia, America and Europe that seem to him to constitute a new vernacular architecture. The emphasis here is on materials available on the fringes of the market on the safeguarding and development of traditional know how on the social role of the architect and on the teaching of architecture.

Cultural Issues in Vernacular Architecture Paul Oliver,2007-06-07 The study of vernacular architecture explores the characteristics of domestic buildings in particular regions or localities and the many social and cultural factors that have contributed to their evolution In this book vernacular architecture specialist Paul Oliver brings together a wealth of information that spans over two decades and the whole globe Some previously unpublished papers as well as those only available in hard to find conference proceedings are brought together in one volume to form a fascinating reference for students and professional architects as well as all those involved with planning housing schemes in their home countries and overseas    Vernacular Architecture in the 21st Century Lindsay Asquith,Marcel Vellinga,2006-03-10 The issues surrounding the function and meaning of vernacular architecture in the twenty first century are complex and extensive Taking a distinctively rigorous theoretical approach this book considers these issues from a number of perspectives broadening current debate to a wider multidisciplinary audience These collected essays from the leading experts in the field focus on theory education and practice in this essential sector of architecture and help to formulate solutions to the environmental disaster management and housing challenges facing the global community today    American Vernacular Architecture 1870 To 1960 Herbert Gottfried,Jan Jennings,2009-07-07 A comprehensive examination of American vernacular buildings    Vernacular Architecture Henry Glassie,2000 Based on thirty five years of fieldwork Glassie's Vernacular Architecture synthesizes a career of concern with traditional building He articulates the key principles of architectural analysis and then centering his argument in the United States but drawing comparative examples from many locations in Europe and Asia he shows how architecture can be a prime resource for the one who would write a democratic and comprehensive history    City Building ,2006    Common Places Dell Upton,John Michael Vlach,1986 Exploring America's material culture Common Places reveals the history culture and social and class relationships that are the backdrop of the everyday structures and environments of ordinary people Examining America's houses and cityscapes its rural outbuildings and landscapes from perspectives including cultural geography decorative arts architectural history and folklore these articles reflect the variety and vibrancy of the growing field of vernacular architecture In essays that focus on buildings and spaces unique to the U S landscape Clay Lancaster Edward T Price John Michael Vlach and Warren E Roberts reconstruct the social and cultural contexts of the modern bungalow the small town courthouse square the shotgun house of the South and the log buildings of the Midwest Surveying the buildings of America s settlement scholars including Henry Glassie Norman Morrison Isham Edward A Chappell and Theodore H M Prudon trace European ethnic influences in the folk structures of Delaware and the houses of Rhode Island in Virginia s Renish homes and in the Dutch barn widely repeated in rural America Ethnic regional and class differences have flavored the nation s vernacular architecture Fraser D Neiman reveals overt changes in houses and outbuildings indicative of the growing social separation and increasingly rigid relations between seventeenth century Virginia planters and their servants Fred B Kniffen and Fred W Peterson show how following the westward expansion of the nineteenth century the structures of the eastern elite were repeated and often rejected by frontier builders Moving into the twentieth century James Borchert tracks the transformation of the alley from an urban home for Washington s blacks in the first half of the century to its new status in the gentrified neighborhoods of the last decade while Barbara Rubin s discussion of the evolution of the commercial strip counterpoints the goals of city planners and more spontaneous forms of urban expression The illustrations that accompany each article present the artifacts of America s material past Photographs of individual buildings historic maps of the nation s agricultural expanse and descriptions of the household furnishings of the Victorian middle class the urban immigrant population and the rural farmer s homestead complete the volume rooting vernacular architecture to the American people their lives and their everyday creations

Technologies for Sustainable Development Jean-Claude Bolay,Silvia Hostettler,Eileen Hazboun,2013-08-04 Whilst scientific research can be crucial in guiding innovation and development throughout the world it can be too detached from real world applications particularly in developing and emerging countries Technologies for Sustainable Development brings together the best 20 papers from the 2012 Conference of the EPFL UNESCO Chair in Technologies for Development with the aim to explore and discuss ways to link scientific research with development practices to assist practitioners and reply directly to social needs In order for technologies to be adopted it is not sufficient that they are low cost and affordable but also socially culturally and environmentally accepted by the intended users Technologies for Sustainable Development aims to explore and answer the following three questions What is an appropriate technology How can we ensure a sustainable integrated development What are the conditions for co creation and transfer of such technologies Focusing on the importance of improving working relationships between stakeholders researchers and decision makers between scientists and industrial sectors between academics and the population Technologies for Sustainable Development opens a dialogue necessary to create and implement the best solutions adapted to social demands     Architecture and Anthropology Adam Jasper,2020-05-21 Both architecture and anthropology emerged as autonomous theoretical disciplines in the 18th century enlightenment Throughout the 19th century the fields shared a common icon the primitive hut and a common concern with both routine needs and ceremonial behaviours Both could lay strong claims to a special knowledge of the everyday And yet in the 20th century notwithstanding genre classics such as Bernard Rudofsky's Architecture without Architects or Paul Oliver's Shelter and various attempts to make architecture anthropocentric such as Corbusier's Modulor disciplinary exchanges between architecture and anthropology were often disappointingly slight This book attempts to locate the various points of departure that might be taken in a contemporary discussion between architecture and anthropology The results are radical post colonial theory is here counterpoised to 19th century theories of primitivism archaeology is set against dentistry fieldwork is juxtaposed against indigenous critique and climate science is applied to questions of shelter This publication will be of interest to both architects and anthropologists The chapters in this book were originally published within two special issues of Architectural Theory Review Vernacular Architecture Mete Turan,2024-11-07 Originally published in 1990 as part of the Ethnoscapes Current Challenges in the Environmental Social Sciences series reissued now with a new series introduction Vernacular Architecture Paradigms of Environmental Response was not meant to be collection to represent one view or approach The only unifying element among the essays is the subject matter It is clear that there are not only disagreements over the interpretation of objective facts but more essentially there is a fundamental difference in the pursuit of scientific knowledge However regardless of these differences if the present volume as an attempt to create a theoretical construct called into question the ideographic approaches which do not penetrate the surface which persistently deal with formal qualities and which are content with only simple deterministic relations then it satisfies the major criterion that this collection of essays set for itself namely to broaden the scope of discussion Surveying and Evaluating Vernacular Architecture Midwest Vernacular Architecture Committee,1991

Design and the Vernacular Paul Memmott,John Ting,Tim O'Rourke,Marcel Vellinga,2023-11-16 Design and the Vernacular explores the intersection between vernacular architecture local cultures and modernity and globalization focussing on the vast and diverse global region of Australasia and Oceania The relevance and role of vernacular architecture in contemporary urban planning and architectural design are examined in the context of rapid political economic technological social and environmental changes including globalization exchanges of people finance material culture and digital technologies Sixteen chapters by architects designers and theorists including Indigenous writers explore key questions about the agency of vernacular architecture in shaping contemporary building and design practice These questions include How have Indigenous building traditions shaped modern building practices What can the study of vernacular architecture contribute to debates about sustainable development And how has vernacular architecture been used to argue for postcolonial modernisation and nation building and what has been the effect on heritage and conservation Such questions provide valuable case studies and lessons for architecture in other global regions and challenge assumptions about vernacular architecture being anachronistic and static instead demonstrating how it can shape contemporary architecture nation building and cultural identities Paradise Valley, Nevada Howard W.

Marshall, 1995 Stonemasons from the Alpine valleys of northwestern Italy shaped the architectural face of Paradise Valley in northern Nevada in the 1860s and 1870s Drawing on their own distinctive skills they constructed the constellation of granite and sandstone buildings that are the region's most visible landmarks Marshall's analysis of this architectural legacy illustrated with 229 photographs and 70 line drawings is not only a valuable resource for scholars in vernacular architecture folklore and cultural geography but also a verbal and visual treat for all who love the American West Imagining Slovene Socialist Modernity Veronica E. Aplenc, 2023-03-15

After the Second World War Yugoslavia's small regional cities represented a challenge for the new socialist state These cities older buildings local historic sites and low quality housing clashed with socialism's promises and ideals How would the state transform these cities everyday neighborhoods In the Slovene republic's capital city of Ljubljana the Trnovo neighborhood embodied this challenge through its modest housing small medieval section vast gardens acclaimed interwar architecture and iconic local reputation Imagining Slovene Socialist Modernity explores how urban planners architects historic preservationists neighborhood residents and even folklorists transformed this beloved neighborhood into a Slovene socialist city district Aplenc demonstrates that this urban redesign centered on republic level interpretations of a Yugoslav socialist built environment versus a reenvisioned Slovene national past or design style This interdisciplinary study sheds light on how Yugoslav state socialism operated at the republic level within a decentralized system and on the diverse forces behind success or failure With its focus on vernacular architecture small scale historic sites single family homes and illegal housing this book expands our understanding of the everyday built environment in socialist cities
