Minor Archeologies:

Working as Indigenous Archaeologists George Nicholas, Joe Watkins, 2024-09-30 Working as Indigenous Archaeologists explores the often contentious relationship between Indigenous and other formerly colonized peoples and Archaeology through their own voices Over the past 35 plus years the once novel field of Indigenous Archaeology has become a relatively familiar part of the archaeological landscape It has been celebrated criticized and analyzed as to its practical and theoretical applications and its political nature No less important are the life stories of its Indigenous practitioners What has brought some of them to become practicing archaeologists or heritage managers What challenges have they faced from both inside and outside their communities And why haven't more pursued Archaeology as a vocation or avocation This volume is a collection of 60 autobiographical chapters by Indigenous archaeologists and heritage specialists from around the world some community based some academic some in other realms who are working to connect past and present in meaningful and especially personal ways As Archaeology continues to evolve there remain strong tensions between an objective science oriented evidentiary based approach to knowing the past and a more subjective relational humanistic approach informed by local values traditional knowledge and holistic perspective While there are no maps for these new territories hearing directly from those Indigenous individuals who have pursued Archaeology reveals the pathways taken Those stories will provide inspiration and confidence for those curious about what lies ahead This is an important volume for anyone interested in the present state and future of the archaeological discipline

Archaeology and the New Testament John McRay, 2008-02 A veteran archaeologist sheds light on the biblical text by examining archaeological discoveries

Archaeology and the Cities of Asia Minor in Late Antiquity Ortwin Dally, Christopher John Ratté, 2011 The city was the fundamental social institution of Greek and Roman culture More than the sack of Rome the abandonment of provincial towns throughout the Mediterranean world in late antiquity fourth seventh centuries A D marks the beginning of the Middle Ages This volume examines archaeological evidence for this last phase of urban life in Asia Minor one of the Roman empire's most prosperous regions Based on the proceedings of a symposium co sponsored by the University of Michigan and the German Archaeological Institute it brings together studies by an international group of scholars on topics ranging from the public sculpture of Constantinople to the depopulation of the Anatolian countryside in early Byzantine times

Handbook of East and Southeast Asian Archaeology Junko Habu, Peter V. Lape, John W. Olsen, 2017-12-08 The Handbook of East and Southeast Asian Archaeology focuses on the material culture and lifeways of the peoples of prehistoric and early historic East and Southeast Asia their origins behavior and identities as well as their biological linguistic and cultural differences and commonalities Emphasis is placed upon the interpretation of material culture to illuminate and explain social processes and relationships as well as behavior technology patterns and mechanisms of long term change and chronology in addition to the intellectual history of archaeology as a discipline in this diverse region The Handbook augments archaeologically focused chapters contributed by regional scholars by providing histories of research and intellectual traditions and by maintaining a broadly comparative perspective Archaeologically derived data are emphasized with text based documentary information provided to complement interpretations of material culture The Handbook is not restricted to art historical or purely descriptive perspectives its geographical coverage includes the modern nation states of China Mongolia Far Eastern Russia North and South Korea Japan Taiwan Vietnam Cambodia Laos Thailand Burma Malaysia Indonesia the Philippines and East Timor

History and Archaeology of Byzantine Asia Minor Clive Foss, 1990 Professor Foss has been a leading figure in pointing out to Byzantinists the necessity of taking archaeological evidence into account when making any historical reconstruction These studies have as their purpose in large part such an evaluation of the archaeological data including the evidence of coin finds weighing it against and combining it with the information gathered from written sources They demonstrate the vital importance of such material for some of the central issues of Byzantine history notably the question to what extent did towns and cities the centres of civilised life in the classical world perpetuate this into the Byzantine period As Foss shows the physical record makes it plain that the structures inherited from Roman times fell into decay and that the land took on a new medieval aspect of fortresses and villages The first articles in this volume deal specifically with this transformation in the Byzantine heartlands of Asia Minor and attribute a key role to the destructive Persian invasions of the 7th century The following pieces based extensively on the results of survey work explore how the patterns of settlement evolved in particular areas from the Roman up into the Turkish periods
