Medicine, Committee on Cancer Research Among Minorities and the Medically Underserved, 1999-05-11 We know more about cancer prevention detection and treatment than ever before yet not all segments of the U S population have benefited to the fullest extent possible from these advances Some ethnic minorities experience more cancer than the majority population and poor people no matter what their ethnicity often lack access to adequate cancer care This book provides an authoritative view of cancer as it is experienced by ethnic minorities and the medically underserved It offers conclusions and recommendations in these areas Defining and understanding special populations and improving the collection of cancer related data Setting appropriate priorities for and increasing the effectiveness of specific National Institutes of Health NIH research programs to ensure that special populations are represented in clinical trials Disseminating research results to health professionals serving these populations with sensitivity to the issues of cancer survivorship The book provides background data on the nation s struggle against cancer activities and expenditures of the NIH and other relevant topics

Cancer Among Blacks and Other Minorities , 1986 Cancer Disparities Ronit Elk, Hope Landrine, American Cancer Society, 2011-10-25 The volume sheds new light on reducing disparities by complementing currently available monographs through the provision of solutions that are not only theoretically innovative but also empirically effective Indeed Cancer Disparities Causes and Evidence Based Solutions admirably achieves two key objectives that are crucial for advances in the field a providing an up to date overview of cancer related disparities and b describing evidence based interventional approaches to close the cancer related disparities gap The implicit promise is that these approaches will enable public health practitioners cancer control workers and community members to use or adapt them in their own communities This volume is essential to help make that promise a reality

PsycCRITIQUES Cancer is not randomly distributed in the United States Its incidence varies by race ethnicity socioeconomic status and other geographic and demographic factors This volume co published with the American Cancer Society is the first to examine the biological racial and socioeconomic factors that influence cancer incidence and survival In addition it presents 15 previously unpublished evidence based interventions to reduce and eliminate cancer disparities The book explains the nature scope and causes of cancer disparities across different populations and then presents unique programs proven to reduce such inequalities in the areas of cancer prevention screening and early detection treatment and survivorship They represent a variety of cancers populations and communities across the U S Descriptions of each intervention include tests of effectiveness and are written in sufficient detail for readers to replicate them within their own communities

Key Features Offers an in depth look at the latest research behind cancer disparities Written by highly respected and published cancer researchers Includes 15 never before published evidence based interventions that readers can replicate Discusses breast colorectal cervical and other pernicious cancers Includes interventions for African American Hispanic Native American and other populations

Cancer Health Disparities Chanita Hughes Halbert, PhD, 2023-11-08 Despite improvements in strategies for early detection and cancer treatment racial and ethnic groups and individuals from other medically underserved populations continue to experience disparities in cancer morbidity and mortality Research in cancer health disparities has evolved from first generation studies that described racial differences in morbidity and mortality to research that examines the efforts of interventions that focus on increasing access to early detection and treatment As a result of these efforts racial background socioeconomic characteristics access to high quality cancer care and psychological and social factors have been documented as important determinants of cancer health disparities these factors provide the context within which cancer is detected treated and prevented The field of cancer health disparities is now at a critical juncture where it is essential to move beyond descriptive information on determinants of disparities in cancer morbidity and mortality to translational studies that examine basic biological processes and how these processes interact with social psychological and behavioral factors to contribute to disparities in cancer risk and outcomes Empirical evidence about the influence of multilevel determinants has grown and now more than ever efforts are being made to understand the independent and interactive effects of biological psychological behavioral and social determinants of cancer health disparities and to translate this information into sustainable interventions for cancer prevention control and treatment Provides an in depth examination of emerging evidence about multilevel determinants of cancer health disparities Describes novel frameworks and approaches that are being used to understand and address cancer health disparities Presents evidence based interventions that have potential to achieve equity
