Minimizing Harm:

Minimizing Harm Edward Rubin, 2018-04-24 This book represents an effort by a number of leading criminologists to articulate a pragmatic crime policy for America a policy that combines academic insights about crime prevention with the realities of contemporary politics

Ethics and the Media Stephen J. A. Ward, 2011-09-15 This book is a comprehensive introduction to media ethics and an exploration of how it must change to adapt to today's media revolution Using an ethical framework for the new mixed media ethics taking in the global interactive media produced by both citizens and professionals Stephen J A Ward discusses the ethical issues which occur in both mainstream and non mainstream media from newspapers and broadcast to social media users and bloggers He re defines traditional conceptions of journalistic truth seeking objectivity and minimizing harm and examines the responsible use of images in an image saturated public sphere He also draws the contours of a future media ethics for the new mainstream media and puts forward cosmopolitan principles for a global media ethics His book will be invaluable for all students of media and for others who are interested in media ethics

Minimizing Harm Edward Rubin, 1999-05-14 Research suggests that crime prevention is generally more effective than harsh punishment But the public fears victimization and demands punishment for the perpetrators of its fears Consequently any policy that moves toward prevention treatment and alternative modes of punishment must simultaneously move toward reducing the level of victimization in a direct and readily comprehensible manner The fifteen authors of this volume articulate a pragmatic crime policy for America which combines academic insights about crime prevention with the realities of contemporary politics The studies collectively outline a coherent policy that centers on minimizing harm as opposed to retribution eliminating crime or solving the social problems that generate criminal behavior Minimizing harm implies a compromise between the best current research and the concerns of citizens The book consists of four principal studies focusing on public attitudes toward crime prevention alternative sanctions and drug policy Each study is accompanied by two commentaries
