Mapping The Distance Poems:

Mapping the Distance Ingrid Horrocks, 2010-05-01 This superb collection of poems shows the benefit of ten years gestation The major part of the book consists of poems coming from years spent living and studying overseas and then settling back in New Zealand and starting a family With its broad scope and variety of lyric styles Mapping the Distance is a landmark book

Mapping the Distance Alicia Hokanson, 1989-01-01 A Map Back to You Mira Lorne, 2025-10-13

What happens when love no longer means staying but remembering When distance doesn't divide but teaches us how to return to ourselves In A Map Back to You poet Mira Lorne traces the fragile cartography of love from first light to final silence from belonging to becoming Through tender luminous verse she explores how connection changes us how distance reshapes us and how even loss can lead us home These poems are not about heartbreak in its sharpest form but about what lingers afterward the fragments the echoes the small mercies we carry forward Each page is a quiet reckoning with what we kept what we left behind and the ways we learn to love again through memory Divided into eight movements A Map Back to You unfolds as both journey and reflection an emotional atlas of discovery loss healing and return Mira Lorne writes with grace and honesty her language spare yet rich her voice both intimate and universal This is a book for anyone who has ever loved deeply and lost quietly For those who still trace the outlines of what was yet sense the horizon of what might be Because sometimes the map we spend our lives following the one we think leads back to someone else is really the path that leads us home

Cartographic Poetry Ted Binnema, François Lanoë, Heinz W. Pyszczyk, 2025-06-16 Cartographic Poetry is the first book length multidisciplinary study of five maps drawn in 1801 and 1802 by several Blackfoot and Gros Ventre people for the Hudson's Bay Company Representing some of the oldest documents created by Indigenous people on the North American prairies and foothills these maps preserve invaluable evidence about places on the landscape and about historic Blackfoot views of their territories The maps were intended as navigational tools but the landforms and locations on the maps hold significance for the Blackfoot well beyond wayfinding and have for many centuries Informed by a career long fascination with this priceless archive the Piikani Nation's placenames project and fieldwork efforts to align Indigenous places and present geography Ted Binnema François Lanoë and Heinz W Pyszczyk study the maps as ethnohistorical sources Exploring their beauty and utility from historical linguistic and archeological perspectives the authors analyze the maps their placenames and features and the tours and trips they may have supported along with providing present day photographs of many of the maps landforms A final section of the book outlines how Indigenous maps contributed significantly to Western geographical knowledge and maps of North America from the 1500s onward Cartographic Poetry will appeal to anthropologists archaeologists geographers historians cartographers of the Great Plains and to all readers interested in how Indigenous peoples perceived and navigated their territories in this early period of colonial encounter With a Foreword by Jerry Potts Jr and an Afterword by Dr Eldon Yellowhorn
