Mapping the Edge Sarah Dunant,2001-03-30 People go missing every day They walk out of their front doors and out of their lives into the silence of cold statistics For those left behind it is the cruelest of long good byes Anna a self sufficient and reliable single mother packs her bags one day for a short vacation to Italy She leaves her beloved six year old daughter Lily at home in London with good friends But when Anna doesn t return everyone begins to make excuses until the likelihood that she might not come back becomes chillingly clear And the people who thought they knew Anna best realize they don t know her at all How could she leave her daughter Why doesn t she call Is she enjoying a romantic tryst with a secret lover Or has she been abducted or even killed by a disturbed stranger Did that person you loved so much and thought you knew so well did they simply choose to go and not come back Or did someone do the choosing for them Dunant a masterly British suspense writer skillfully interweaves parallel narratives that are stretched taut with tension even as they raise difficult questions about motherhood friendship and accountability In this compelling hybrid of sophisticated crime writing and modern women s fiction Dunant challenges and unnerves us as she redefines the boundaries of the psychological thriller Missing rubs the soul raw In place of answers all you have is your imagination

Sarah Dunant,1999-05-06 Liminal Fiction at the Edge of the Millennium Jessica A. Folkart,2014-10-08 Liminal Fiction at the Edge of the Millennium The Ends of Spanish Identity investigates the predominant perception of liminality identity situated at a threshold neither one thing nor another but simultaneously both and neither caused by encounters with otherness while negotiating identity in contemporary Spain Examining how identity and alterity are parleyed through the cultural concerns of historical memory gender roles sex religion nationalism and immigration this study demonstrates how fictional representations of reality converge in a common structure wherein the end is not the end but rather an edge a liminal ground On the border between two identities the end materializes as an ephemeral limit that delineates and differentiates yet also adjoins and approximates In exploring the ends of Spanish fiction both their structure and their intentionality Liminal Fiction maps the edge as a constitutive component of narrative and identity in texts by Najat El Hachmi Cristina Fernández Cubas Javier Marías Rosa Montero and Manuel Rivas In their representation of identity on the edge these fictions enact and embody the liminal not as simply a transitional and transient mode but as the structuring principle of identification in contemporary Spain

The Routledge Companion to Literary Urban Studies Lieven Ameel,2022-08-10 Over the past decades the growing interest in the study of literature of the city has led to the development of literary urban studies as a discipline in its own right The Routledge Companion to Literary Urban Studies provides a methodical overview of the fundamentals of this developing discipline and a detailed outline of new directions in the field. It consists of 33 newly commissioned chapters that provide an outline of contemporary literary urban studies. The Companion covers all of the main theoretical approaches as well as key literary genres with case studies covering a range of different geographical cultural and historical settings. The final chapters provide a window into new debates in the field. The three focal issues are key concepts and genres of literary urban studies, a reassessment and critique of classical urban studies theories and the canon of literary capitals and methods for the analysis of cities in literature. The Routledge Companion to Literary Urban Studies provides the reader with practical insights into the methods and approaches that can be applied to the city in literature and serves as an important reference work for upper level students and researchers working on city literature. Book Review Digest, 2002 The Human Edge Keith J. Holyoak, 2025-02-25 What makes human cognition distinct from animal and artificial forms of intelligence and how analogies play a crucial role in our unique abilities. In The Human Edge cognitive scientist poet and translator Keith Holyoak takes a fresh look at what makes human intelligence special. His focus is analogy the ability to see relational similarities between things that on the surface seem unlike. The book brings together a half century of research in cognitive comparative and developmental psychology coupled with work in philosophy law education linguistics neuroscience and artificial intelligence. Rather than simply examining analogy as an isolated human ability, Holyoak places it in the broader context of a trinity of special human capacities analogy language and understanding the minds of other people. Each of these capacities relies on distinct neural circuitry in the human brain. Holyoak analyzes the similarities and critical differences between cognition in humans and in other intelligent animals ranging from crows to chimpanzees. He also traces how relational thinking develops in children emphasizing the distinctive advances that begin at about age three. Along the way Holyoak paints a broad picture of how people use analogy in everyday life to make jokes to argue to teach to make moral judgments. He considers when an analogy counts as rational evidence for or against a scientific hypothesis or the judgment in a legal case. He also evaluates the most recent advances in artificial intelligence that have started to achieve complex tasks previously limited to humans while highlighting the distinctive aspects of human creativity. In a time of rapid technological change with ominous portents for society this book provides a timely reexamination of what really counts as the human edge.

The New York Times Index, 2001 Human Language Peter Hagoort, 2019-10-29 A unique overview of the human language faculty at all levels of organization. Language is not only one of the most complex cognitive functions that we command it is also the aspect of the mind that makes us uniquely human. Research suggests that the human brain exhibits a language readiness not found in the brains of other species. This volume brings together contributions from a range of fields to examine humans language capacity from multiple perspectives analyzing it at genetic neurobiological psychological and linguistic levels In recent decades advances in computational modeling neuroimaging and genetic sequencing have made possible new approaches to the study of language and the contributors draw on these developments The book examines cognitive architectures investigating the functional organization of the major language skills learning and development trajectories summarizing the current understanding of the steps and neurocognitive mechanisms in language processing evolutionary and other preconditions for communication by means of natural language computational tools for modeling language cognitive neuroscientific methods that allow observations of the human brain in action including fMRI EEG MEG and others the neural infrastructure of language capacity the genome s role in building and maintaining the language ready brain and insights from studying such language relevant behaviors in nonhuman animals as birdsong and primate vocalization Section editors Christian F Beckmann Carel ten Cate Simon E Fisher Peter Hagoort Evan Kidd Stephen C Levinson James M McQueen Antje S Meyer David Poeppel Caroline F Rowland Constance Scharff Ivan Toni Willem Zuidema World Authors, 2000-2005 Jennifer Curry,2007 Representing a broad range of ethnic diversity these in depth profiles present fascinating accounts of lives and careers the circumstances under which works were produced and their literary significance Each profile also includes critical evaluation a list of the author s principal works with date first published a list of major critical works and a portrait or photograph where available
