Charles Bricker, 1981 The World Map, 1300-1492 Evelyn Edson, 2007-07-15 A history of the development of world maps during the later medieval period in the centuries leading up to Columbus's journey In the two centuries before Columbus mapmaking was transformed The World Map 1300-1492 investigates this important transitional period of mapmaking

Beginning with a 1436 atlas of ten maps produced by Venetian Andrea Bianco Evelyn Edson uses maps of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries to examine how the discoveries of missionaries and merchants affected the content and configuration of world maps She finds that both the makers and users of maps struggled with changes brought about by technological innovation the compass quadrant and astrolabe rediscovery of classical mapmaking approaches and increased travel To reconcile the tensions between the conservative and progressive worldviews mapmakers used a careful blend of the old and the new to depict a world that was changing and growing before their eyes This engaging and informative study reveals how the ingenuity creativity and adaptability of these craftsmen helped pave the way for an age of discovery A comprehensive and complex picture of the changing face of medieval geography With the mastery of a formidable palette of historiographic knowledge and well reasoned discussions of the sources The World Map 1300-1492 will certainly remain an important work to consult for both medieval and early modern scholars for many years to come Ian J Aebel Terrae Incognitae

How Maps are Made Martyn Bramwell, 1998 Describes the history of mapmaking and provides instructions for making maps

American Maps and Mapmakers Walter William Ristow, 1985 The Map Book Peter Barber, 2005-01-01 Chronicles the historical development of maps and mapping from the Bronze Age to the present collecting some 175 maps spanning ten millennia that represent the progress of civilization and technology from military plans that depict enemy positions to the famed London Underground layout to the digitally enhanced renderings of today

Mapping Time and Space Evelyn Edson, 1997 Until recently medieval maps were often looked upon as quaint amusing and quite simply wrong By comparison the best examples of modern cartography appear to offer a much more accurate record of the world However as Professor Edson makes clear in this stimulating book when seeking the meaning and purpose of maps in the Middle Ages one cannot assume that they were used for the same purposes or had the same meaning as they do today In fact the differences in structure and content give us an intriguing insight into how medieval mapmakers and readers saw their world By a close study of the context in which the mapmakers produced their work it can be shown that they were often striving to present and make sense of a world picture that naturally incorporated key events from the past at the same time showing a narrative of human spiritual development from the Creation to the Last Judgment From publisher s description The British Library Companion to Maps and Mapmaking Rebecca Stefoff,1995 This guide to maps and map making combines dictionary and encyclopaedia formats to provide a comprehensive accessible reference to geography and mapping Over 350 entries are arranged alphabetically for ease of use and illustrations include maps from all periods portraits and drawings or diagrams illustrating technical topics Biographical entries include colourful details and anecdotes as well as the important facts about each individual s contribution to cartography Most entries include suggestions for further reading and are cross referenced to other articles

The Art of Illustrated Maps John Roman,2015-09-25 While literally hundreds of books exist on the subject of cartographic maps The Art of Illustrated Maps is the first book EVER to fully explore the world of conceptual imaginative mapping Author John Roman refers to illustrated maps as the creative nonfiction of cartography and his book reveals how and why the human mind instinctively recognizes and accepts the artistic license evoked by this unique art form Drawing from numerous references The Art of Illustrated Maps traces the 2000 year history of a specialized branch of illustration that historians claim to be the oldest variety of primitive art This book features the dynamic works of many professional map artists from around the world and documents the creative process as well as the inspirations behind contemporary 21st century illustrated maps

David Buisseret,2003-05-22 In 1400 Europe was behind large parts of the world in its understanding of the use of maps For instance the people of China and of Japan were considerably more advanced in this respect And yet by 1600 the Europeans had come to use maps for a huge variety of tasks and were far ahead of the rest of the world in their appreciation of the power and use of cartography The Mapmakers Quest seeks to understand this development not only to tease out the strands of thought and practice which led to the use of maps but also to assess the ways in which such use affected European societies and economies Taking as a starting point the question of why there were so few maps in Europe in 1400 and so many by 1650 the book explores the reasons for this and its implications for European history It examines inter al how mapping and military technology advanced in tandem how modern states territories were mapped and borders drawn up the role of maps in shaping the urban environment and cartography's links to the new sciences Small Worlds Karen Romano Young,2002 Discusses the main components of maps and describes how maps are made and the various types of maps
