March To War:

The nation at war, by General Peyton C. March, United States army Peyton Conway March,1932      Supply Manual (war). Great Britain. War Office,1909      Farm Machinery and Equipment Policies of the War Production Board and Predecessor Agencies, May 1940 to September 1944 James A. McAleer,1946      World's War Events: Beginning with the attack at Verdun early in 1916 the story of the war and of American aid is carried to the close of 1917 Francis Joseph Reynolds,Allen Leon Churchill,1919      Our War Too Margaret Paton-Walsh,2002 In the late 1930s a number of American women especially those allied with various peace and isolationist groups protested against the nation's entry into World War II While their story is fairly well known Margaret Paton Walsh reveals a far less familiar story of women who fervently felt that American intervention was absolutely necessary Paton Walsh recounts how the United States became involved in the war but does so through the eyes of American women who faced it as a necessary evil Covering the period between 1935 and 1941 she examines how these women functioned as political actors even though they were excluded from positions of power through activism in women's organizations informal women's networks and even male dominated lobbying groups In the Great Debate over whether America should enter the war some women favored aid to the Allies not because they hoped for war but because they hoped aid would forestall more direct U S involvement but also because they believed war was preferable to a Nazi victory Paton Walsh shows that this activism involved some of the most prominent women of their day Elizabeth Cutter Morrow whose son in law Charles Lindbergh was an isolationist spokesman supported the revision of the Neutrality Acts to allow the sale of arms to the Allies and expressed her support in a national radio broadcast Soon other women joined this debate Esther Brunauer of the AAUW journalist Dorothy Thompson and organizations like the League of Women Voters and National Women's Trade Union League broke from the pacifist tradition to advocate American aid for the Allied cause Focusing on the conflict in Europe Paton Walsh shows how these women grasped the implications of the Lend Lease program for America's entry into the war but supported it nevertheless By late 1941 the Women's Division of the Fight for Freedom Committee had been established no longer merely advocating aid to Britain to keep American boys out of battle this organization supported direct American involvement in the war as a means of stopping Nazi oppression While most historians have focused on women's pacifism Paton Walsh connects women more directly to world events and shows how those interventionists reformulated maternalist ideas to justify and explain their beliefs Our War Too is a story of American women trying to reconcile the irreconcilable to preserve both their principles and their peace It expands our understanding of women as political actors and thinkers about foreign policy as it sheds new light on American public opinion over the build up to the war      A Military History of the World War Charles Roscoe Howland,1923      Annual Reports of the Secretary of War United States. War Department,1915      Rolls of Connecticut Men in the French and Indian War, 1755-1762 Connecticut Historical Society,1905      Churchill's Phoney War Graham Clews,2019-11-15 Given the dearth of scholarship on the Phoney War this book examines the early months of World War II when Winston Churchill's ability to lead Britain in the fight against the Nazis was being tested. Graham T Clews explores how Churchill as First Lord of the Admiralty proposed to fight this new world war with particular attention given to his attempts to impel the Royal Navy, the British War Cabinet and the French toward a more aggressive prosecution of the conflict. This is no mere retelling of events but a deep analysis of the decision making process and Churchill's unique involvement in it. This book shares extensive new insights into well trodden territory and original analysis of the unexplored with each chapter offering material which challenges conventional wisdom. Clews reassesses several important issues of the Phoney War period including Churchill's involvement in the anti U boat campaign, his responsibility for the failures of the Norwegian Campaign, his attitude to Britain's aerial bombing campaign and the notion of his unfettered bulldog spirit, his relationship with Neville Chamberlain and his succession to the premiership. A man of considerable strengths and many shortcomings, the Churchill that emerges in Clews' portrayal is dynamic and complicated. Churchill's Phoney War adds a well balanced and much needed history of the Phoney War while scrupulously examining Churchill's successes and failures.

Orchestrating Warfighting Tim Bean, Edward Flint, James E. Kitchen, Paul Latawski, 2024-09-10. Orchestrating Warfighting provides a detailed and wide ranging examination of the employment of corps and divisions from the First World War through to the early twenty first century. Divisions and corps formations have been at the forefront of the British Army's prosecution of war since 1914. They constituted the major command and organisational elements that underpinned the conduct of large scale warfighting on land. Divisions and corps were of central importance to the conduct of the First and Second World Wars, the maintenance of a conventional deterrence posture during the Cold War and were also employed in major confrontations since 1945 including the Korean War and two Gulf Wars. The British Army of the early twenty first century still retains two divisional formations alongside the British led Allied Rapid Reaction Corps within NATO. Orchestrating Warfighting examines British Dominion and imperial corps and divisions taking part in the total wars of the first half of the twentieth century and smaller scale conflicts since 1945. It throws new light on questions of command, generalship and the management of battles and campaigns across a diverse range of theatres. Orchestrating Warfighting is of interest to historians of the British Army, operational military history and modern war.
