Luo Biological Dictionary J. O. Kokwaro, Timothy Johns, 1998 This highly illustrated and definitive dictionary by two renowned biologists one Kenyan one Canadian contains extensive coverage of the flora fauna and animals of the Lake Victoria region of East Africa occupied by the Luo community and is based on ten years of research by the authors It is an expansion of the 1972 publication Luo English Botanical Dictionary of Plant Names and Their Uses and now provides more botanical entries and an additional section consisting of a zoological dictionary The individual entry comprises Luo terminology its botanical zoological equivalent common name when applicable physical description its prevalence and its respective economic use Luo Biological Dictionary ,1998 Dholuo-English Dictionary Asenath Odaga,2005

Classification of East African Crops Kokwaro, John O.,2015-03-16 Classification of East African Crops is a revised modern version of a book first published in 1979 It is a handbooks grouping the crops timber and common ornamental plants found in East Africa into 26 classes The plants are discussed under two broad categories namely usage and commercial classifications the Type A group of plants based on usage classification has 19 classes including the famous categories such as cereals fruits vegetables legumes oil crops fiber crops and forage and fodder plants amongst others The Type B group based on commercial use of the plants covers food crops cash crops commercial horticultural crops forbidden crops drug plants and bee forage or useful plants for honey bees Each class has a full or brief discussion of the crops or useful plants grown in modern East Africa covering Kenya Tanzania Uganda Rwanda and Burundi The most important part of the handbooks is the list of all major and minor crops and useful plants in each class containing the English or trade names the botanical names and the families to which they belong The book has over 70 selected colour plates illustrating different crops and other useful plants It is an excellent handbook for university and college scholars students and researchers in agriculture forestry environment and animal husbandry Eating and Healing Andrea Pieroni,Lisa Price,2006-03-15 Discover neglected wild food sources that can also be used as medicine The long standing notion of food as medicine medicine as food can be traced back to Hippocrates Eating and Healing Traditional Food As Medicine is a global overview of wild and semi domesticated foods and their use as medicine in traditional s Legacies of Departed African Women Writers Helen O. Chukwuma,Chioma Carol Opara,2022-08-29 Legacies of Departed African Women Writers Matrix of Creativity and Power proffers varied perspectives of the invaluable contributions of ten deceased African writers from all across Africa who have cleared the path to a vibrant African feminist arena The dynamics of change gleaned from both their textual and contextual concerns unarguably set the pace for contemporary African women writers who have striven to follow in the footsteps of their literary mothers as well as their oral foremothers This book edited by Helen Chukwuma and Chioma Carol Opara shows the collective testament of ample creativity and power generated by these departed heroes Flora Nwapa Mariama Ba Grace Ogot Zulu Sofola Bessie Head Buchi Emecheta Nawal El Saadawi Assia Djebar Yvonne Vera and Nadine Gordimer These chapters revolve around the positive impact of the celebrated writers on creative writing theoretical formulations and socio cultural change The contributors argue that these corpuses of works have illuminated creativity rooted in power vision and freedom

The Gospel Sounds Like the Witch's Spell Kiyoshi Umeya, 2022-02-10 The Gospel Sounds Like the Witch's Spell is a highly detailed ethnography about how the Jopadhola in eastern Uganda talk about interpret and cope with death illness and other misfortunes The book presents a provocative discussion that critiques the idea of the revival of witchcraft in the neo liberalised contemporary world as represented by the modernity model of witchcraft and attempts to formulate a spiderweb model that connects witchcraft to contemporary society in a more complex manner The book is a unique ethnography of the collective memory of indigenous knowledge and local historicity The author moves the reader from curse to misfortune to fortune as he plots the notion of curse as deeply embedded in the Adhola way of life He weaves between culture religion state and modernity with lived experience Did the concept of witchcraft unwittingly endear the Adhola to the Christian way of life because of the presence of the notion of curse in the Bible or make them less susceptible to the vagaries of modernity compared to their neighbours These are some of the questions that the author puts on the table in a deeply reflective manner The phenomenon of witchcraft is given an intriguing angle that invites the reader to reexamine earlier anthropological writings on the subject among African peoples

Medicinal Plants of East Africa J. O. Kokwaro, 2009 Medicinal Plants of East Africa is a revised edition of the book first published in 1976 on herbal remedies and the traditional medical practice of East Africa The book covers the rich diversity of plants found in Kenya Tanzania and Uganda from sea to alpine plants East Africa also has a rich ethnic diversity and a large number of herbalists whose traditional knowledge and practices are also covered in the book Over 1500 species are described and for the first time over 200 of these herbs have been illustrated Also included are maps detailing where the herbs were collected and an ethnographic map detailing the tribes of each herbalist whose knowledge is contained in the book John Kokwaro is an Eminent Professor of Botany and a research specialist on herbal remedies at the University of Nairobi

Eating on the Wild Side Nina L. Etkin, 2000-11-01 People have long used wild plants as food and medicine and for a myriad of other important cultural applications While these plants and the foraging activities associated with them have been dismissed by some observers as secondary or supplementary or even backward their contributions to human survival and well being are more significant than is often realized Eating on the Wild Side spans the history of human plant interactions to examine how wild plants are used to meet medicinal nutritional and other human needs Drawing on nonhuman primate studies evidence from prehistoric human populations and field research among contemporary peoples practicing a range of subsistence strategies the book focuses on the processes and human ecological implications of gathering semidomestication and cultivation of plants that are unfamiliar to most of us Contributions by distinguished cultural and biological anthropologists paleobotanists primatologists and ethnobiologists explore a number of issues such as the consumption of unpalatable and famine foods the comparative assessment of aboriginal diets with those of colonists and later arrivals and the apparent self treatment by sick chimpanzees with leaves shown to be pharmacologically active Collectively these articles offer a theoretical framework emphasizing the cultural evolutionary processes that transform plants from wild to domesticated with many steps in between while placing wild plant use within current discussions surrounding biodiversity and its conservation Eating on the Wild Side makes an important contribution to our understanding of the links between biology and culture describing the interface between diet medicine and natural products By showing how various societies have successfully utilized wild plants it underscores the growing concern for preserving genetic diversity as it reveals a fascinating chapter in the human ecology

Africanist Librarianship in an Era of Change Victoria K. Evalds, David Henige, 2005-04-19 While the essays collected in this volume address a number of issues they all share the same aim of placing Africanist librarianship in the contexts of our times Many essays set high value on service to present and future African library users through the usage of such means as bibliographic instruction and the accumulation and arrayal of information in databases and websites Still others look to the theme of outreach because unfortunately the effect of the electronic revolution like that of many other revolutions was that the rich got richer and the poor poorer The post colonial information gap the book and journal famine in Africa which was only exacerbated by independence has become almost unbridgeable in the last few decades As these essays indicate Africanist librarians and other scholars have done and are continuing to do whatever possible to alleviate this whether by training exchanging information providing resources or establishing partnerships with long term objectives
