Nonostante Malthus:

David Ricardo. An Intellectual Biography Sergio Cremaschi, 2021-11-28 David Ricardo has been acclaimed or vilified for merits he would never have dreamt of or sins for which he was entirely innocent. Entrenched mythology labels him as a utilitarian economist, an enemy of the working class, an impractical theorist, a scientist with no philosophy at all, and the author of a formalist methodological revolution. Exploring a middle ground between theory and biography, this book explores the formative intellectual encounters of a man who came to economic studies via other experiences, thus bridging the gap between the historical Ricardo and the economist's Ricardo. The chapters undertake a thorough analysis of Ricardo's writings in their context, asking who was speaking, what audience was being addressed, with what communicative intentions, using what kind of lexicon and communicative conventions, and starting with what shared knowledge. The work opens in presenting the different religious communities with which Ricardo was in touch. It goes on to describe his education in the leading science of the time, geology, before he turned to the study of political economy. Another chapter discusses five philosophers, students of logic, ethics, and politics, with whom he was in touch. From correspondence, manuscripts, and publications, the closing chapters reconstruct firstly Ricardo's ideas on scientific method, the limits of the abstract science, and its application, and secondly his ideas on ethics and politics, and their impact on strategies for improving the condition of the working class. This book sheds new light on Ricardian economics, providing an invaluable service to readers of economic methodology, philosophy of economics, the history of economic thought, political thought, and philosophy. Political Economy and Religion

Gilbert Faccarello, 2020-04-28 Ever since Antiquity, reflections about economic problems have always been intertwined with questions relating to politics, ethics, and religion. From the 18th century onwards, economic thought seemed to have been gradually disentangled from any other field and to have gained the status of an autonomous scientific discipline, especially with the later use of mathematics. In fact, the growth of economic knowledge never broke off any ties with these other fields, and especially with religion and ethics, even though the links with them became less obvious; they only changed shape. This is what this book illustrates, each chapter dealing with different periods and authors, from the Middle Ages to the present times. Focusing in turn on the thought of the Scholastics, Ibn Rushd, Averroes, John Calvin, the French liberal Jansenists, Dugald Stewart, David Ricardo, Henri de Saint-Simon, Charles de Caux, and French Christian Political Economy, Auguste Comte, and mile Durkheim, Henry Sidgwick, Arthur Cecil Pigou, and finally John Maynard Keynes, the studies collected here show how religious themes played an important role in the development of economic thought. This book was originally published as a Special Issue of The European Journal of the History of Economic Thought. Images of the Economy of Nature, 1650-1930

Antonello La Vergata, 2023-10-05 The book discusses ideas concerning the order and balance of nature or economy of nature from the late 17th century to the early 20th century. The perspective taken is broad, longue durée, and interdisciplinary, and reveals the interplay of scientific, philosophical, moral, and social ideas. The story begins with natural theology, dating roughly to the onset of the so called Newtonian Revolution and ends with the First World War The cut off date has been chosen for the following reasons the war changed the state of things affecting man s way of looking at and relating to nature both directly and indirectly indeed it put an end to most applications of Darwinism to society and history including interpretations of war as a form of the struggle for existence The author presents an overview of the different images of nature that were involved in these debates especially in the late 19th century when a large part of the scientific community paid lip service to Darwinism while practically each expert felt free to interpret it in his own distinct way The book also touches on the so called social Darwinism which was neither a real theory nor a common body of ideas and its various views of society and nature s economy Part of this book deals with the persistence of moralizing images of nature in the work of many authors One of the main features of the book is its wealth of detailed quotations In this way the author gives the reader the opportunity to see the original statements on which the author bases his discussion The author privileges the analysis of different positions over a historiography offering a merely linear narrative based on general implications of ideas and theories To revisit the concept of the so called Darwinian Revolution we need to examine the various perspectives of scientists and others their language and so to speak the lenses they used when reading facts and theories The book ends with some general reflections on Darwin and Darwinisms the plural is important as a case study on the relationship between intellectual history the history of science and contextual history Written by a historian this book really gives new multidisciplinary perspectives on the Darwinian Revolution

The Pig and the Skyscraper Marco d'Eramo, 2020-05-05 You expect the city of Al Capone and what you find are pleasant boulevards coursing up and down between the neo classical buildings of the 1893 Universal Exhibition The city center unfolds before you an architectural miracle that is to twentieth century urban planning what Venice must have been for the fifteenth century Like a cross between Philip Marlowe and Walter Benjamin Marco d'Eramo stalks the streets of Chicago leaving no myth unturned Maintaining a European s detached gaze he slowly comes to recognize the familiar stink of modernity that blows across the Windy City the origins of whose greatness the slaughterhouses the railroads the lumber and cereal crop trades are by now ancient history and where what rears its head today is already scheduled for tomorrow s chopping block Chicago has been the stage for some of modernity s key episodes the birth of the skyscraper the rise of urban sociology the world s first atomic reactor the hard nosed monetarism of the Chicago School Here in this postmodern Babel where the contradictions of American society are writ large d'Eramo bears witness to the revolutionary subversive power of capitalism at its purest

Complexity Perspectives in Innovation and Social Change David Lane, Denise

Pumain, Sander Ernst van der Leeuw, Geoffrey West, 2009-02-13 Innovation is nowadays a question of life and death for many of the economies of the western world Yet due to our generally reductionist scientific paradigm invention and innovation are rarely studied scientifically Most work prefers to study its context and its consequences As a result we are as a society lacking the scientific tools to understand improve or otherwise impact on the processes of invention and innovation This book delves deeply into that topic taking the position that the complex systems approach with its emphasis on emergence is better suited than our traditional approach to the phenomenon In a collection of very coherent papers which are the result of an EU funded four year international research team s effort it addresses various aspect of the topic from different disciplinary angles One of the main emphases is the need in the social sciences to move away from neo darwinist population thinking to organization thinking if we want to understand social evolution Another main emphasis is on developing a generative approach to invention and innovation looking in detail at the contexts within which invention and innovation occur and how these contexts impact on the chances for success or failure Throughout the book is infused with interesting new insights but also presents several well elaborated case studies that connect the ideas with a substantive body of real world information
