Old Woman And The Ghost:

Aging and Loss Jason Danely, 2015-01-02 By 2030 over 30% of the Japanese population will be 65 or older foreshadowing the demographic changes occurring elsewhere in Asia and around the world What can we learn from a study of the aging population of Japan and how can these findings inform a path forward for the elderly their families and for policy makers Based on nearly a decade of research Aging and Loss examines how the landscape of aging is felt understood and embodied by older adults themselves In detailed portraits anthropologist Jason Danely delves into the everyday lives of older Japanese adults as they construct narratives through acts of reminiscence social engagement and ritual practice and reveals the pervasive cultural aesthetic of loss and of being a burden Through first hand accounts of rituals in homes cemeteries and religious centers Danely argues that what he calls the self in suspense can lead to the emergence of creative participation in an economy of care In everyday rituals for the spirits older adults exercise agency and reinterpret concerns of social abandonment within a meaningful cultural narrative and by reimagining themselves and their place in the family through these rituals older adults in Japan challenge popular attitudes about eldercare Danely's discussion of health and long term care policy and community welfare organizations reveal a complex picture of Japan's aging society

Reclaimed Powers David Gutmann, 1994 A unique feature of human development is that mothers and fathers are bound to a long period of child rearing during which the continuity of our species depends on the fulfilment of distinct parental roles and on the suppression of psychological potentials that conflict with those roles But once the parental emergency is over the author argues men and women can assert those parts of their personalities curbed by the restrictions of raising children It is this shift in roles a product of evolution found throughout our species that led David Gutmann to propose a new psychology of ageing based not on the threat of loss but on the promise of important new pleasures and capacities
