Hegel and the Art of Negation Andrew W. Hass, 2013-11-12 Why is the philosopher Hegel returning as a potent force in contemporary thinking Why after a long period when Hegel and his dialectics of history have seemed less compelling than they were for previous generations of philosophers is study of Hegel again becoming important Fashionably contemporary theorists like Francis Fukuyama and Slavoj Zizek as well as radical theologians like Thomas Altizer have all recently been influenced by Hegel the philosopher whose philosophy seems somehow perennial or to borrow an idea from Nietzsche eternally returning Exploring this revival via the notion of negation in Hegelian thought and relating such negativity to sophisticated ideas about art and artistic creation Andrew Hass argues that the notion of Hegelian negation moves us into an expansive territory where art religion and philosophy may all be radically reconceived and broken open into new forms of philosophical expression The implications of such a revived Hegelian philosophy are the author argues vast and current Hegel thereby becomes the philosopher par excellence who can address vital issues in politics economics war and violence leading to a new form of globalised ethics Hass makes a bold and original contribution to religion philosophy and the history of ideas

The Disciplinary Frame John Tagg, 2009-01-28 Photography can

seem to capture reality and the eye like no other medium commanding belief and wielding the power of proof In some cases a photograph itself is attributed the force of the real How can a piece of chemically discolored paper have such potency How does the meaning of a photograph become fixed In The Disciplinary Frame John Tagg claims that to answer these questions we must look at the ways in which all that frames photography the discourse that surrounds it and the institutions that circulate it determines what counts as truth The meaning and power of photographs Tagg asserts are discursive effects of the regimens that produce them as official record documentary image historical evidence or art Teasing out the historical processes involved he examines a series of revealing case studies from nineteenth century European and American photographs to Depression era works by Walker Evans Dorothea Lange and Margaret Bourke White to the conceptualist photography of John Baldessari Central to this transformative work are questions of cultural strategy the growth of the state and broad issues of power and representation how the discipline of the frame holds both photographic image and viewer in place without erasing the possibility for evading and even resisting capture Photographs Tagg ultimately finds are at once too big and too small for the frames in which they are enclosed always saying more than is wanted and less than is desired
