On European Ground:

On European Ground Alan Cohen, Sander L. Gilman, 2001-04 A profound visual meditation on the trauma that scars twentieth century Europe Alan Cohen's On European Ground considers the battlefields of World War I the Nazi death camps and the Berlin Wall and records the distance between what we remember about these places and what we can still observe in them today By walking these sites and photographing the very ground in which their history has dissolved Cohen opens a space for reflection on their complex gravity and legacy Cohen's images achieve a solemn beauty even as they engage history at its most topical Pictures of trenches and bunkers at the battlefields of Somme and Verdun explore the tension between the violence of the past and the inscrutability of its remnants Photographs from the grounds of Dachau and Auschwitz solicit a provocative dialogue between the ordinariness of these sites today and their haunting memory They teach us as the New Art Examiner notes that the living perceptual connection to the Holocaust is vanishing Images of the Berlin Wall show only the footprint of the barricade that once separated two hostile ideologies They record the physical erosion and looming disappearance of the Wall while capturing its reappearance as a memorialized abstraction Accompanying the photographs in On European Ground are essays by Sander Gilman and Jonathan Bordo as well as an interview with Cohen by critic Roberta Smith of the New York Times The essays present both an introduction to and aesthetic analysis of Cohen's work while the interview discusses the intractable problems of history and memory that his photographs so uniquely capture

Communities of Memory William James Booth, 2006 Memory has

fueled merciless violent strife and it has been at the core of reconciliation and reconstruction It has been used to justify great crimes and yet it is central to the pursuit of justice In these and more everyday ways we live surrounded by memory individual and social in our habits our names the places where we live street names libraries archives and our citizenship institutions and laws Still we wonder what to make of memory and its gifts though sometimes we are hardly even certain that they are gifts Of the many chambers in this vast palace I mean to ask particularly after the place of memory in politics in the identity of political communities and in their practices of doing justice from the Preface W James Booth seeks to understand the place of memory in the identity ethics and practices of justice of political communities Identity is he believes a particular kind of continuity across time one central to the possibility of agency and responsibility and memory plays a central role in grounding that continuity Memory identity takes two forms a habitlike form the deep presence of the past that is part of a life led in common and a more fragile vulnerable form in which memory struggles to preserve identity through time notably in bearing witness a form of memory work deeply bound up with the identity of political communities Booth argues that memory holds a defining place in determining how justice is administered Memory is tied to the very possibility of an ethical community one responsible for its own past able to make commitments for the future and driven to seek justice Underneath and motivating the politics of memory understood as contests over the writing of history over memorials museums and canons he writes there lies an intertwining of memory identity and justice Communities of Memory both argues for and maps out that intertwining
